

Yank Captain Enjoys Job Of Cleaning Up In City Of Aachen

By HAL BOYLE

Aachen, Germany, Oct. 18 (Delayed) (AP)—Unofficial "mayor of Aachen" is a 26-year old American captain, who daily toured this wrecked city to see that doughboys got supporting fire in prodding German defenders from attic and basement shelters.

Whenever Nazis holed up for a last-ditch defense, you could look around and find Capt. Gilbert H. Fuller of Ludlow, Vt., calmly twirling a borrowed enemy cane and calling up mortars and machineguns to blast them out.

Ask Fuller what he did before entering the Army, and he will first say, "My memory isn't that good," and then he'll add, "I guess I was just a playboy."

He is one of the most popular junior officers along the front. His men like him because he came up from the ranks during his four years' service, and hasn't got officer's complex.

Daily Fourth of July

The troops like him, too, because he fights gaily. No matter how the enemy mortar or artillery fire showers down, they always can glance around and see him grinning cheerfully. It causes their own unconscious fear of death to ebb.

He is one of the few men in this nasty, house-to-house cleanup who actually seems to enjoy the job. He has a boy's love of battle, and one positive theory of street fighting:

"Just throw around all the firepower you can—and the rest isn't so hard. Make a lot of noise in the streets and you can scare the enemy. They run down into cellars, and then you teach them to be good with a grenade—if they haven't already had enough."

So his heavy machineguns and mortars have kept up an almost continuous barrage ahead of advancing doughboys who have to do the actual flushing out of the enemy. Since he went to work, every day has been Fourth of July in Aachen.

Best In The Army

"We can put our mortar shells down within 100 yards of our own infantry," he said. "It doesn't make too much difference whether you have a specific target to shoot at. If you keep throwing a lot of fire and making enough bang-bang, you'll pin the Jerries inside and keep their heads down so they can't snipe."

His ablest assistant is a tall, young staff sergeant, Louis Chase of Springfield, Vt., whom Capt. Fuller describes without qualification as "the best mortarman in the U. S. Army."

Says Fuller: "He's faster and can throw more fire on a target in less time than any other man I ever saw. He has two mortar guns and 20 men in his section. He can keep 15 mortars in the air from each gun—and those mortar shells hit like artillery. That means when the first shell hits the target there are 29 others already on the way, too. That's some shooting!"

Artistry With Mortar

"That guy came into the Army right off the farm. I don't know anyone cooler or more courageous under fire. His whole section was cited for the job they did in other battles, and he was awarded the Silver Star."

In my first walk through the desolate avenues of this famous tourist gateway to old Germany, I saw visual evidence of Sgt. Chase's mortar artistry.

Three German soldier corpses lay by the entrance of a concrete air raid shelter they had been trying to reach when German caught them a step from safety.

"Chase saw them from an observation post about 100 yards away," said Fuller. "He didn't bother to zero-in. He just called back directions to his men and put three quick ones right on top of them. A nice job. Couldn't have done better with a shotgun."

J. G. WOLF SUES SCHOOL BOARD FOR BACK PAY

J. Guy Wolf, 32 East Lincoln avenue, a commercial teacher at Gettysburg high school, filed action today to recover from the school district of Gettysburg what he charges is back salary of $200 per year since the beginning of the school year of 1941-42.

The action in assumption was in case stated; an action in which both parties agree to the facts as presented in the petition to the court and ask for a special court verdict.

Wolf contends, in his action, that a contract entered into by him and the Gettysburg School board May 16, 1937, guaranteed him an annual salary of $1,600. He further states that the board notified him July 7, 1941, that his salary would be reduced from $1,800 to $1,600 and the latter figure is the salary he has been receiving since the beginning of the 1941-1942 school year.

Others Reduced

The school board action taken in July 1941 reduced the salaries of Miss Dorothy Brindle, former music supervisor, and Miss Ann Mumper, former art supervisor, to $1,600 each. A teachers' salary schedule adopted January 9, 1939, was used as a basis for the reduction in July 1941. The salary schedule set basic salaries for teachers, based on certain educational requirements and the number of years of teaching in the Gettysburg schools.

Wolf said he received a board notice June 13, 1940, in which it was stated that salaries would be reduced to conform with the teachers' salary schedule, but that his salary for the school year, 1940-1941 would remain at $1,800. He stated that his educational credits would not have entitled him to receive more than $1,600 under the salary schedule.

Since the beginning of the school year, 1941-1942, he said, he has not received more than $1,600 plus certain increases required by an act of the state assembly in May 1943. He stated that he endorsed under protest all salary checks received since the pay cut, and on May 30, 1942, addressed a letter to the board in which he formally requested the restoration of his former salary.

Action Next Month

The action asks that if the court decides the school district was not entitled to reduce Wolf's salary, that judgment be entered against the school board for the amount due—a figure to be set by the date of the entry of the judgment.

J. Francis Yake, Jr., Esq., and Lewis F. Adler, Esq., of Harrisburg, signed the "in case stated" action for Wolf. Richard A. Brown, Esq., school board attorney, signed for the defendants. A subpoena for the school board to appear in the November court for the hearing of the case was accepted by Brown.

Attached to the case papers were copies of Wolf's contract with the school board; an extract from the minutes of the school board meeting, July 7, 1941; and two letters dated June 13, 1940, and July 14, 1941, addressed to Wolf from the board.

CONTESTS WILL MADE BY AGED COUNTY WOMAN

Court action was instituted here this morning by John W. Spangler, of Hanover, who contends the will of his late sister, Clara Adelia Stavelly, of Germany township, was made under duress and constraint exercised by one of the heirs, a nephew.

Spangler in a petition presented to the court, asked for a jury trial to decide on two questions (1) whether or not at the time of the execution of the will, the decedent was a person of sound mind; and (2) whether or not execution of the will was procured by undue influence, duress, and constraint practiced upon Mrs. Stavelly, by the nephew, Amos L. Spangler, and others.

Charges "Undue Influence"

Mrs. Stavelly died at her home May 8, of this year. Her will, as filed at the office of Register of Wills Winfield G. Horner, named Amos L. Spangler, Luther H. Spangler, another nephew, Wilbur A. Bankert, all of Lirdestown, as executors of her estate. When the will was filed for probate the estate was estimated at $14,800 in personal property and $2,800 in real estate. The will was dated November 13, 1943, and Luther H. Spangler and Amos L. Spangler were named sole heirs.

John Spangler said in his petition that he "believes and expects to be able to prove that at the time of the execution of the aforesaid writing (the will) the physical and mental condition of the said decedent was greatly impaired by sickness and the infirmities of age, and that she was not a person of sound mind capable of disposing of her estate by will, and further that said writing was procured by undue influence, duress and constraint practiced upon the said decedent by Amos L. Spangler, one of the executors named in the alleged will and by other persons whom your petitioner is at the present time unable to name."

He stated that Mrs. Stavelly was 82 years old when she signed the will, and was "bedfast by reason of serious illness and was so weak and infirm mentally that she was unable intelligently to dispose of her property, that at said time she did not have full knowledge of the property she possessed and of the value (Please Turn to Page 2)

On Other War Fronts

New Landing

By WILLIAM FRYE
London, Oct. 26 (AP)—The German high command announced today that Allied forces, striking to clear the last Nazi guns blocking Allied convoys from Antwerp, had landed on the south shore of Beveland island.

"Countermeasures are in progress," the communique said, indicating the amphibious forces already had made good a bridgehead on the north side of the Scheldt estuary.

Earlier Berlin broadcasts that Walcheren, another island north of the estuary, had been invaded by Allied land and sea forces were not borne out by the communique.

The landing apparently was made under the protection of a dense morning fog which swept in from the North sea and came as Allied forces, fighting through hip-deep water, forged slowly ahead to clear the sea approaches to Antwerp.

Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's pincers tightened relentlessly on Germans clinging to the water logged deltas and islands of southwest Holland, with the enemy giving ground all the way from Bergen Op Zoom to 's Hertogenbosch.

Red Bridgehead

Moscow, Oct. 26 (AP)—Russian and Polish troops, suddenly renewing the offensive in the Warsaw area, have driven a bridgehead at least six miles deep across the Vistula river just north of the beleaguered Polish capital, outflanked the city and posed still another threat to East Prussia from the south, Moscow revealed today.

While other Red Army forces sweeping into Norway captured the prize Arctic port of Kirkenes and completed the conquest of Transylvania in the south, Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's First Russian Army, along with units of the First Polish Army, reached the Warsaw suburb towns of Laszki and Dabrowka and closely approached the main railway leading westward into Germany proper, a Soviet communique said.

Laszki is five miles northwest of Warsaw and situated on the secondary road flanking on the north the highway and rail communications to Berlin and Danzig. Dabrowka is 19 miles northwest of Warsaw and six miles south of the big Vistula bend.

If Rokossovsky has built up a new punch in recent weeks—and there seems good reason to believe he has done just that—momentous operations may be developing that will overshadow anything else on the eastern front.

Nippon Fleet Is Shattered; Toll May Rise

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 26 (AP)—More than 26 Japanese warships were sunk or heavily damaged in the three-pronged battle of the Philippines, incomplete reports on the most crushing defeat ever administered the modern Nipponese navy disclosed today.

Combined reports of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the three major engagements involving the bulk of the Japanese fleet listed these known results:

25 Down: More To Follow

Eight Japanese ships sunk—two carriers, one battleship, five cruisers.

Three probably sunk—two battleships, one carrier.

More than 15 damaged—seven battleships, four cruisers, four destroyers, and "several" more destroyers.

Both commanders made it clear that their final reports show heavier Japanese losses, particularly in ships sunk.

The crushing three-fold defeat apparently left the emperor's navy stripped of the carrier, battleship and cruiser power necessary to again engage the U. S. fleet in a major action, successfully oppose a landing on the China coast, or strongly defend the shores of Japan itself from attack.

MacArthur's invasion of the Philippines touched off the triple battle, among the greatest in naval history.

Nimitz's report today was limited to two engagements—an overwhelming one-sided victory over the largest Japanese task force, caught south of Formosa by U. S. carrier planes, warships and submarines; and a crucial air-sea engagement in the Sibuyan Sea of the Philippines on which the fate of invasion forces on Leyte hung in the balance.

Results Of Two Battles

These two battles brought these results:

Definitely sunk—one large carrier, one light carrier, four cruisers.

Probably sunk—one large carrier, two battleships.

Severely damaged—six battleships, three heavy cruisers and several destroyers.

Japanese naval communiques admitted the loss of one battleship, two cruisers, 1 destroyer and substantial damage to another battleship.

Most of the destruction was inflicted on a Japanese task force caught south of Formosa, Nimitz said, "with no damage to our ships."

Previously Nimitz had reported the loss of the light carrier Princeton and General MacArthur announced the sinking of an escort carrier from the Seventh Fleet covering his amphibious landings on Leyte.

Day, Night Sea And Air Fight

The Imperial task force caught near Formosa in the Philippine Sea "was attacked by a concentration of aircraft, surface ships and submarines" for a day and night. Enemy aircraft flew out from the Philippines in a futile attempt to rescue the trapped Nipponese task force. The Japanese finally escaped under cover of a black night.

By far the greatest of the three naval engagements was fought southeast of Formosa where carrier pilots of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's task force routed a major force of the Imperial navy.

The three-day series of engagements began late Monday afternoon and continued into Wednesday morning until every Japanese ship still afloat had turned its stern toward Halsey and was fleeing with all speed possible in a crippled condition.

Darkness Covers Jap Escape

Apparently only the blackness of the night made it possible for the crippled survivors of the Mikado's forces to disperse and flee from the wrath of the Halsey-Mitscher carrier pilots.

This second battle of the Philippines Sea—Adm. Raymond A. Spruance directed the first on June 19 when his carrier planes sank or damaged nearly a score of enemy ships—very probably has made possible an attack against the Japanese homeland itself in the not distant future.

Destruction of approximately 12 Japanese carriers probably leaves the empire with very few flat-tops. These, presumably, are being held for emergency use near the homeland.

Her losses in battleships, cruisers and destroyers has also been very heavy. But whatever ships in these categories remain afloat and in battle condition, will be impotent without strong aerial protection.

N.C.C.W. MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Ignatius unit of the National Council of Catholic Women was held last Sunday evening in the church hall with the president, Miss Catherine Miller, in charge. The meeting of the Fellowship will follow. The service is open to the public. The Rev. John H. Ehrhart is pastor of the church.

INSTALLATION SERVICE

Newly-elected officers of the Youth Fellowship of Trinity Evangelical Reformed church, Cashtown, will be installed at a service Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A business meeting of the Fellowship will follow. The service is open to the public. The Rev. John H. Ehrhart is pastor of the church.

Enemy aircraft flew out from the Philippines in a futile attempt to rescue the trapped Nipponese task force. The Japanese finally escaped under cover of a black night.

By far the greatest of the three naval engagements was fought southeast of Formosa where carrier pilots of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's task force routed a major force of the Imperial navy.

The three-day series of engagements began late Monday afternoon and continued into Wednesday morning until every Japanese ship still afloat had turned its stern toward Halsey and was fleeing with all speed possible in a crippled condition.

Darkness Covers Jap Escape

Apparently only the blackness of the night made it possible for the crippled survivors of the Mikado's forces to disperse and flee from the wrath of the Halsey-Mitscher carrier pilots.

This second battle of the Philippines Sea—Adm. Raymond A. Spruance directed the first on June 19 when his carrier planes sank or damaged nearly a score of enemy ships—very probably has made possible an attack against the Japanese homeland itself in the not distant future.

Destruction of approximately 12 Japanese carriers probably leaves the empire with very few flattops. These, presumably, are being held for emergency use near the homeland.

Her losses in battleships, cruisers and destroyers has also been very heavy. But whatever ships in these categories remain afloat and in battle condition, will be impotent without strong aerial protection.

J. G. WOLF SUES
SCHOOL BOARD
FOR BACK PAY

J. Guy Wolf, 32 East Lincoln avenue, a commercial teacher at Gettysburg high school, filed action today to recover from the school district of Gettysburg what he charges is back salary of $200 per year since the beginning of the school year of 1941-42.

The action in assumptit was in case stated; an action in which both parties agree to the facts as presented in the petition to the court and ask for a special court verdict.

Wolf contends, in his action, that a contract entered into by him and the Gettysburg School board May 6, 1937, guaranteed him an annual salary of $1,600. He further states that the board notified him July 7, 1941, that his salary would be reduced from $1,800 to $1,600 and the latter figure is the salary he has been receiving since the beginning of the 1941-1942 school year.

Others Reduced
The school board action taken in July 1941 reduced the salaries of Miss Dorothy Brindle, former music supervisor, and Miss Ann Mumper, former art supervisor, to $1,600 each. A teachers' salary schedule adopted January 9, 1939, was used as a basis for the reduction in July 1941. The salary schedule set basic salaries for teachers, based on certain educational requirements and the number of years of teaching in the Gettysburg schools.

Wolf said he received a board notice June 13, 1940, in which it was stated that salaries would be reduced to conform with the teachers' salary schedule, but that his salary for the school year, 1940-1941 would remain at $1,800. He stated that his educational credits would not have entitled him to receive more than $1,600 under the salary schedule.

Since the beginning of the school year, 1941-1942, he said, he has not received more than $1,600 plus certain increases required by an act of the state assembly in May 1943. He stated that he endorsed under protest all salary checks received since the pay cut, and on May 30, 1942, addressed a letter to the board in which he formally requested the restoration of his former salary.

Action Next Month
The action asks that if the court decides the school district was not entitled to reduce Wolf's salary, that judgment be entered against the school board for the amount due—a figure to be set by the date of the entry of the judgment.

J. Francis Yake, Jr., Esq., of Harrisburg, signed the "in case stated" action for Wolf. Richard A. Brown, Esq., school board attorney, signed for the defendants. A subpoena for the school board to appear in the November court for the hearing of the case was accepted by Brown. Attached to the case papers were copies of Wolf's contract with the school board; an extract from the minutes of the school board meeting July 7, 1941; and two letters dated June 13, 1940, and July 14, 1941, addressed to Wolf from the board.

CONTESTS WILL
MADE BY AGED
COUNTY WOMAN

Court action was instituted here this morning by John W. Spangler, of Hanover, who contends the will of his late sister, Clara Adella Stavelly, of Germany township, was made under duress and constraint exercised by one of the heirs, a nephew. Spangler in a petition presented to the court, asked for a jury trial to decide on two questions (1) whether or not at the time of the execution of the will, the decedent was a person of sound mind; and (2) whether or not execution of the will was procured by undue influence, duress, and constraint practiced upon Mrs. Stavelly, by the nephew, Amos L. Spangler, and others.

Charges "Undue Influence"
Mrs. Stavelly died at her home May 8, of this year. Her will, as filed at the office of Register of Wills Winfield O. Horner, named Amos L. Spangler, Luther H. Spangler, another nephew, Wilbur A. Bankert, all of Littlestown, as executors of her estate. When the will was filed for probate in the estate was estimated at $14,800 in personal property and $2,800 in real estate. The will was dated November 13, 1943, and Luther H. Spangler and Amos L. Spangler were named sole heirs.

John Spangler said in his petition that he "believes and expects to be able to prove that at the time of the execution of the aforesaid writing (the will) the physical and mental condition of the said decedent was greatly impaired by sickness and the infirmities of age, and that she was not a person of sound mind capable of disposing of her estate by will, and further that said writing was procured by undue influence, duress and constraint practiced upon the said decedent by Amos L. Spangler, one of the executors named in the alleged will and by other persons whom your petitioner is at the present time unable to name."

He stated that Mrs. Stavelly was 82 years old when she signed the will and was "bedfast by reason of serious illness and was so weak and infirm mentally that she was unable intelligently to dispose of her property, that at said time she did not have full knowledge of the property she possessed and of the value (Please Turn to Page 2)

The Army Specialized Training Unit was activated here on June 6 with 225 youngsters. Fifty-five of the youths have since left school. Three other schools in the state activated similar units at the same time. They are Duquesne, Pittsburgh and Penn State.

Transfer orders for the local unit have not been received here and it is not known, definitely, where the young men will be sent. It was rumored, but could not be confirmed, that they would be transferred to Penn State.

War Fronts

New Landing
By WILLIAM FRYE

London, Oct. 26 (AP)—The German high command announced today that Allied forces, striking to clear the last Nazi garrisons blocking Allied convoys from Antwerp, had landed on the south shore of Beveland Island.

"Countermeasures are in progress," the communique said, indicating the amphibious forces already had made good a bridgehead on the north side of the Scheldt estuary.

Earlier Berlin broadcasts that Walcheren, another island north of the estuary, had been invaded by Allied land and sea forces were not borne out by the communique.

The landing apparently was made under the protection of a dense morning fog which swept in from the North sea and came as Allied forces, fighting through hip-deep water, forged slowly ahead to clear the sea approaches to Antwerp.

Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's pincers tightened relentlessly on Germans clinging to the water logged deltas and islands of southwest Holland, with the enemy giving ground all the way from Bergen Op Zoom to 'S Hertogenbosch.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Red Bridgehead

Moscow, Oct. 26 (AP)—Russian and Polish troops, suddenly renewing the offensive in the Warsaw area, have driven a bridgehead at least six miles deep across the Vistula river just north of the beleaguered Polish capital, outflanked the city and posed still another threat to East Prussia from the south, Moscow revealed today.

While other Red Army forces sweeping into Norway captured the prize Arctic port of Kirkenes and completed the conquest of Transylvania in the south, Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's First Russian Army, along with units of the First Polish Army, reached the Warsaw suburb towns of Laski and Dabrowka and closely approached the main railway leading westward into Germany proper, a Soviet communique said.

Laski is five miles northwest of Warsaw and situated on the secondary road flanking on the north the highway and rail communications to Berlin and Danzig. Dabrowka is 19 miles northwest of Warsaw and six miles south of the big Vistula bend.

If Rokossovsky has built up a new punch in recent weeks—and there seems good reason to believe he has done just that—momentous operations may be developing that will overshadow anything else on the eastern front.

Nippon Fleet
Is Shattered;
Toll May Rise

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 26 (AP)—More than 26 Japanese warships were sunk or heavily damaged in the three-pronged battle of the Philippines, incomplete reports on the most crushing defeat ever administered the modern Nipponese navy disclosed today.

Combined reports of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the three major engagements involving the bulk of the Japanese fleet listed these known results:

25 Down: More To Follow

Eight Japanese ships sunk—two carriers, one battleship, five cruisers.

Three probably sunk—two battleships, one carrier.

More than 15 damaged—seven battleships, four cruisers, four destroyers, and "several" more destroyers.

Both commanders made it clear that their final reports show heavier Japanese losses, particularly in ships sunk.

The crushing three-fold defeat apparently left the emperor's navy stripped of the carrier, battleship and cruiser power necessary to again engage the U. S. fleet in a major action, successfully oppose a landing on the China coast, or strongly defend the shores of Japan itself from attack.

MacArthur's invasion of the Philippines touched off the triple battle, among the greatest in naval history.

Nimitz's report today was limited to two engagements—an overwhelming one-sided victory over the largest Japanese task force, caught south of Formosa by U. S. carrier planes, warships and submarines; and a crucial air-sea engagement in the Sibuyan Sea of the Philippines on which the fate of invasion forces on Leyte hung in the balance.

Results Of Two Battles

These two battles brought these results:
Definitely sunk—one large carrier, one light carrier, four cruisers.

Probably sunk—one large carrier, two battleships. Severely damaged—six battleships, three heavy cruisers and several destroyers.

Japanese naval communiques admitted the loss of one battleship, two cruisers, 1 destroyer and substantial damage to another battleship.

Most of the destruction was inflicted on a Japanese task force caught south of Formosa, Nimitz said, "with no damage to our ships."

Previously Nimitz had reported the loss of the light carrier Princeton and General MacArthur announced the sinking of an escort carrier from the Seventh Fleet covering his amphibious landings on Leyte.

Day, Night Sea And Air Fight

The Imperial task force caught near Formosa in the Philippine Sea "was attacked by a concentration of aircraft, surface ships and submarines" for a day and night. Enemy aircraft flew out from the Philippines in a futile attempt to rescue the trapped Nipponese task force. The Japanese finally escaped under cover of a black night.

By far the greatest of the three naval engagements was fought southeast of Formosa where carrier pilots of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's task force routed a major force of the Imperial navy.

The three-day series of engagements began late Monday afternoon and continued into Wednesday morning until every Japanese ship still afloat had turned its stern toward Halsey and was fleeing with all speed possible in a crippled condition.

Darkness Covers Jap Escape

Apparently only the blackness of the night made it possible for the crippled survivors of the Mikado's forces to disperse and flee from the wrath of the Halsey-Mitscher carrier pilots.

This second battle of the Philippines Sea—Adm. Raymond A. Spruance directed the first on June 19 when his carrier planes sank or damaged nearly a score of enemy ships—very probably has made possible an attack against the Japanese homeland itself in the not distant future.

Destruction of approximately 12 Japanese carriers probably leaves the empire with very few flattops. These, presumably, are being held for emergency use near the homeland.

Her losses in battleships, cruisers and destroyers has also been very heavy. But whatever ships in these categories remain afloat and in battle condition, will be impotent without strong aerial protection.

Yank Captain Enjoys Job Of Cleaning Up In City Of Aachen

By HAL BOYLE
Aachen, Germany, Oct. 18 (Delayed) (AP)—Unofficial "mayor of Aachen" is a 26-year old American captain, who daily toured this wrecked city to see that doughboys got supporting fire in prodding German defenders from attic and basement shelters.

Whenever Nazis holed up for a last-ditch defense, you could look around and find Capt. Gilbert H. Fuller of Ludlow, Vt., calmly twirling a borrowed enemy cane and calling up mortars and machineguns to blast them out.

Ask Fuller what he did before entering the Army, and he will first say, "My memory isn't that good," and then he'll add, "I guess I was just a playboy."

He is one of the most popular junior officers along the front. His men like him because he came up from the ranks during his four years' service, and hasn't got officer's complex.

Daily Fourth of July
The troops like him, too, because he fights gaily. No matter how the enemy mortar or artillery fire showers down, they always can glance around and see him grinning cheerfully. It causes their own unconscious fear of death to ebb.

He is one of the few men in this nasty, house-to-house cleanup who actually seems to enjoy the job. He has a boy's love of battle, and one positive theory of street fighting: "Just throw around all the firepower you can—and the rest isn't so hard. Make a lot of noise in the streets and you can scare the enemy. They run down into cellars, and then you teach them to be good with a grenade—if they haven't already had enough."

So his heavy machineguns and mortars have kept up an almost continuous barrage ahead of advancing doughboys who have to do the actual flushing out of the enemy. Since he went to work, every day has been Fourth of July in Aachen.

Best In The Army
"We can put our mortar shells down within 100 yards of our own infantry," he said. "It doesn't make too much difference whether you have a specific target to shoot at. If you keep throwing a lot of fire and making enough bang-bang, you'll pin the Jerries inside and keep their heads down so they can't snipe."

His ablest assistant is a tall, young staff sergeant, Louis Chase of Springfield, Vt., whom Capt. Fuller describes without qualification as "the best mortarman in the U. S. Army."

Says Fuller: "He's faster and can throw more fire on a target in less time than any other man I ever saw. He has two mortar guns and 20 men in his section. He can keep 15 mortars in the air from each gun—and those mortar shells hit like artillery. That means when the first shell hits the target there are 29 others already on the way, too. That's some shooting!"

Artistry With Mortar
"That guy came into the Army right off the farm. I don't know anyone cooler or more courageous under fire. His whole section was cited for the job they did in other battles, and he was awarded the Silver Star."

In my first walk through the desolate avenues of this famous tourist gateway to old Germany, I saw visual evidence of Sgt. Chase's mortar artistry.

Three German soldier corpses lay by the entrance of a concrete air raid shelter they had been trying to reach when death caught them a step from safety.

"Chase saw them from an observation post about 100 yards away," said Fuller. "He didn't bother to zero-in. He just called back directions to his men and put three quick ones right on top of them. A nice job. Couldn't have done better with a shotgun."

Col. Hafer Named General SS Counsel

Col. George Horace Hafer, Harrisburg, a native of Abington, has been appointed general counsel of the Selective Service System under General Hershey, it has been announced.

In 1932 he was graduated from Dickinson Law school and was admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court.

He was commissioned a captain in the Judge Advocate General Department of the Pennsylvania National Guard in 1936 and later served as a legal director of the Pennsylvania Selective Service and as acting director of the department for several months. He was transferred to the Judge Advocate School at Ann Arbor, Mich., where he was graduated as president of his class in 1944. J. G. WOLF SUES SCHOOL BOARD FOR BACK PAY

J. Guy Wolf, 32 East Lincoln avenue, a commercial teacher at Gettysburg high school, filed action today to recover from the school district of Gettysburg what he charges is back salary of $200 per year since the beginning of the school year of 1941-42.

The action in assumpsit was in case stated; an action in which both parties agree to the facts as presented in the petition to the court and ask for a special court verdict.

CONTESTS WILL MADE BY AGED COUNTY WOMAN

Court action was instituted here this morning by John W. Spangler, of Hanover, who contends the will of his late sister, Clara Adella Stavely, of Germany township, was made under duress and constraint exercised by one of the heirs, a nephew.

Spangler in a petition presented to the court, asked for a jury trial to decide on two questions (1) whether or not at the time of the execution of the will, the decedent was a person of sound mind; and (2) whether or not execution of the will was procured by undue influence, duress, and constraint practiced upon Mrs. Stavely, by the nephew, Amos L. Spangler, and others.

Charges "Undue Influence"
Mrs. Stavely died at her home May 8, of this year. Her will, as filed at the office of Register of Wills Winfield G. Horner, named Amos L. Spangler, Luther H. Spangler, another nephew, Wilbur A. Bankert, all of Littlestown, as executors of her estate. When the will was filed for probate the estate was estimated at $14,800 in personal property and $2,800 in real estate. The will was dated November 13, 1943, and Luther H. Spangler and Amos L. Spangler were named sole heirs.

John Spangler said in his petition that he "believes and expects to be able to prove that at the time of the execution of the aforesaid writing (the will) the physical and mental condition of the said decedent was greatly impaired by sickness and the infirmities of age, and that she was not a person of sound mind capable of disposing of her estate by will, and further that said writing was procured by undue influence, duress and constraint practiced upon the said decedent by Amos L. Spangler, one of the executors named in the alleged will and by other persons whom your petitioner is at the present time unable to name."

He stated that Mrs. Stavely was 82 years old when she signed the will, and was "bedfast by reason of serious illness and was so weak and infirm mentally that she was unable intelligently to dispose of her property, that at said time she did not have full knowledge of the property she possessed and of the value thereof."

'Penny Milk' For First Grade Pupils Is Planned

The 100 first grade pupils in the Gettysburg public schools soon will be supplied with a half pint of milk each morning at recess time when a plan announced Wednesday afternoon by the Woman's club of Gettysburg goes into operation.

The club announcement stated that the state will share in the cost of the program under its "Penny Milk Parade" setup while the Woman's club will pay for a share of the cost of each bottle of milk. The cost to the child will be one cent per bottle.

There will be a bottle of milk for every first grader. Boys or girls unable to supply the penny will be served as well as those who can pay for their milk.

Although complete details of the program have not yet been worked out here, the daily bottle of milk is expected to be made available some time next month. Present plans provide for the "Penny Milk Parade" to continue through the winter months.

May Expand Project
Explaining that the project is being undertaken in the way of an experiment, club officers said that if results are satisfactory and funds are available, the milk may be supplied for a longer period.

The club also may seek to interest other local organizations in helping to finance an expansion of the program to include second grade pupils and first and second grade pupils in the local parochial school.

Whole milk will be supplied—not chocolate milk.

The club's welfare committee headed by Mrs. Dunning Idle, Sr., is in charge of arrangements. The club estimates that the winter-month milk for the public school first graders will cost the club about $65.

On Other War Fronts

New Landing
By WILLIAM FRYE

London, Oct. 26 (AP)—The German high command announced today that Allied forces, striking to clear the last Nazi guns blocking Allied convoys from Antwerp, had landed on the south shore of Beveland island.

"Countermeasures are in progress," the communique said, indicating the amphibious forces already had made good a bridgehead on the north side of the Schelde estuary.

Earlier Berlin broadcasts that Walcheren, another island north of the estuary, had been invaded by Allied land and sea forces were not borne out by the communique.

The landing apparently was made under the protection of a dense morning fog which swept in from the North sea and came as Allied forces, fighting through hip-deep water, forged slowly ahead to clear the sea approaches to Antwerp.

Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's pincers tightened relentlessly on Germans clinging to the water logged deltas and islands of southwest Holland, with the enemy giving ground all the way from Bergen Op Zoom to 'S Hertogenbosch.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Red Bridgehead

Moscow, Oct. 26 (AP)—Russian and Polish troops, suddenly renewing the offensive in the Warsaw area, have driven a bridgehead at least six miles deep across the Vistula river just north of the beleaguered Polish capital, outflanked the city and posed still another threat to East Prussia from the south, Moscow revealed today.

While other Red Army forces sweeping into Norway captured the prize Arctic port of Kirkenes and completed the conquest of Transylvania in the south, Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's First Russian Army, along with units of the First Polish Army, reached the Warsaw suburb towns of Laski and Dabrowka and closely approached the main railway leading westward into Germany proper, a Soviet communique said.

Laski is five miles northwest of Warsaw and situated on the secondary road flanking on the north the highway and rail communications to Berlin and Danzig. Dabrowka is 19 miles northwest of Warsaw and six miles south of the big Vistula bend.

If Rokossovsky has built up a new punch in recent weeks—and there seems good reason to believe he has done just that—momentous operations may be developing that will overshadow anything else on the eastern front.

Nippon Fleet Is Shattered; Toll May Rise

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 26 (AP)—More than 26 Japanese warships were sunk or heavily damaged in the three-pronged battle of the Philippines, incomplete reports on the most crushing defeat ever administered the modern Nipponese navy disclosed today.

Combined reports of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz and Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the three major engagements involving the bulk of the Japanese fleet listed these known results:

25 Down: More To Follow
Eight Japanese ships sunk—two carriers, one battleship, five cruisers.

Three probably sunk—two battleships, one carrier. More than 15 damaged—seven battleships, four cruisers, four destroyers, and "several" more destroyers.

Both commanders made it clear that their final reports show heavier Japanese losses, particularly in ships sunk.

The crushing three-fold defeat apparently left the emperor's navy stripped of the carrier, battleship and cruiser power necessary to again engage the U. S. fleet in a major action, successfully oppose a landing on the China coast, or strongly defend the shores of Japan itself from attack.

MacArthur's invasion of the Philippines touched off the triple battle, among the greatest in naval history.

Nimitz's report today was limited to two engagements—an overwhelming one-sided victory over the largest Japanese task force, caught south of Formosa by U. S. carrier planes, warships and submarines; and a crucial air-sea engagement in the Sibuyan Sea of the Philippines on which the fate of invasion forces on Leyte hung in the balance.

Results Of Two Battles
These two battles brought these results:

Definitely sunk—one large carrier, one light carrier, four cruisers.

Probably sunk—one large carrier, two battleships.

Severely damaged—six battleships, three heavy cruisers and several destroyers.

Japanese naval communiques admitted the loss of one battleship, two cruisers, 1 destroyer and substantial damage to another battleship.

Most of the destruction was inflicted on a Japanese task force caught south of Formosa, Nimitz said, "with no damage to our ships."

Previously Nimitz had reported the loss of the light carrier Princeton and General MacArthur announced the sinking of an escort carrier from the Seventh Fleet covering his amphibious landings on Leyte.

Day, Night Sea And Air Fight
The Imperial task force caught near Formosa in the Philippine Sea "was attacked by a concentration of aircraft, surface ships and submarines" for a day and night. Enemy aircraft flew out from the Philippines in a futile attempt to rescue the trapped Nipponese task force. The Japanese finally escaped under cover of a black night.

By far the greatest of the three naval engagements was fought southeast of Formosa where carrier pilots of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's task force routed a major force of the Imperial navy.

The three-day series of engagements began late Monday afternoon and continued into Wednesday morning until every Japanese ship still afloat had turned its stern toward Halsey and was fleeing with all speed possible in a crippled condition.

Darkness Covers Jap Escape
Apparently only the blackness of the night made it possible for the crippled survivors of the Mikado's forces to disperse and flee from the wrath of the Halsey-Mitscher carrier pilots.

This second battle of the Philippines Sea—Adm. Raymond A. Spruance directed the first on June 19 when his carrier planes sank or damaged nearly a score of enemy ships—very probably has made possible an attack against the Japanese homeland itself in the not distant future.

Destruction of approximately 12 Japanese carriers probably leaves the empire with very few flattops. These, presumably, are being held for emergency use near the homeland.

Her losses in battleships, cruisers and destroyers has also been very heavy. But whatever ships in these categories remain afloat and in battle condition, will be impotent without strong aerial protection.

N.C.C.W. MEETING

JAPS COMMIT HARI - KARI BY USING FLEET

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

It looks as though the Japanese had just about succeeded in committing hari-kari in the great sea-battle off the Philippines.

They have suffered a major disaster. Indeed, it may prove to be a decisive defeat which has smashed the main-spring of Nippon's sea power and so will hasten the end of the Pacific war. However, we can't appraise the situation fully until the complete report is at hand. This is a moment for evaluation but not for loose superlatives.

While details are lacking it's clear that the Allied force (an Australian squadron participated) has dealt a devastating blow to Japan's first-line ships. This may have crippled the Mikado's Navy—a calamity for him.

Crisis Is Near
This column yesterday called the developing battle of the Philippines the crisis of the war in the Orient. Clearly the magnitude of the Japanese naval effort is recognition of this. But the Japs aren't the only ones to see the emergency. There are signs on every hand that this thought of crisis is in the minds of the Allied high command.

There's a gathering of the United Nations clans in the Orient for the U. N. It isn't just coincidence that this comes as the great MacArthur strikes to redeem his pledge to free the Philippines. The method and concerted action are recognition that this is the crucial moment.

Australia is making big preparations to accommodate British forces. The vast Indian base is seething with activity. The Royal Air Force in England already has completed plans to move a steady stream of warplanes to the Far East the moment Hitler yells quits—or somebody yells it for him. The British are moving a great naval fleet from England into the Orient.

Action From Stillwell
Our own General Stillwell in China is rushing operations for the reopening of the Burma Road to expedite the movement of supplies to the hard-pressed Chinese and to the American Air Force. The British are attacking again in Burma, with the ending of the monsoon deluge. Lord Mountbatten's command is wading the space in work preliminary to assaults against Japan's key positions in Indonesia.

So the steel ring tightens about the Mikado's forces. But there's another element present in the Allied set-up which isn't so obvious. That's the vast and which General MacArthur is receiving, and will receive increasingly from the Philippine population of some 17,000,000 in defeating the Japanese.

Probably we shall be smart not to assume that all Filipino love us and will work for us. However, a multitude of them will give us their aid, and MacArthur is reported to be receiving invaluable assistance from them already.

Guerillas Active
Some of the aid will be military. For guerrilla bands have been operating against the Japanese ever since the brigades of the Orient invaded the Philippines. From the days of Bataan unrepentant bands of Filipinos have been operating out of their hill and jungle fastnesses to harry and slay the Japs.

Other Filipino help will be in material things, and the archipelago is rich in much that MacArthur will need. However, a highly important part of the assistance will be neither in fighting nor in supplies but a contribution which will be under cover.

This will be the spring out of information about the Japanese forces as MacArthur extends his occupation into the great island of Luzon from which the Allies will be able to lean out at the Japanese from all directions. Working under cover of secrecy the Filipinos will act as ears and eyes for the American forces—a tremendous help.

The Employment Service here anticipates continued heavy demand for workers in view of the present manpower shortage. Mr. Crouse said.

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—A declaration by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, in his Chicago speech last night that President Roosevelt's administration "boldly offers for sale special privilege," has been denied by Democratic national committee Chairman Robert E. Hannegan.

Replying to Dewey's reference to the "One Thousand Club," Hannegan said in a statement last night "I have never discussed with the President the organization of the 'Thousand Club' and any quotation contained in the letter read tonight by Governor Dewey attributed to the President is wholly without substance and is unauthorized."

"I have been advised by Edwin W. Pauley, treasurer of the national committee," he added, "that such an organization has been established in an effort to raise funds to defray campaign expenses. Those who subscribe $1,000 are making an investment in democracy and the project has my approval."

JAPS COMMIT HARI-KARI BY USING FLEET

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

It looks as though the Japanese had just about succeeded in committing hara-kari in the great sea-battle off the Philippines.

They have suffered a major disaster. Indeed, it may prove to be a decisive defeat which has smashed the main-spring of Nippon's sea power and so will hasten the end of the Pacific war. However, we can't appraise the situation fully until the complete report is at hand. This is a moment for exultation but not for loose superlatives.

While details are lacking it's clear that the Allied force (an Australian squadron participated) has dealt a devastating blow to Japan's first-line ships. This may have crippled the Mikado's Navy—a calamity for him.

Crisis Is Near

This column yesterday called the developing battle of the Philippines the crisis of the war in the Orient. Clearly the magnitude of the Japanese naval effort is recognition of this. But the Japs aren't the only ones to see the emergency. There are signs on every hand that this thought of crisis is in the minds of the Allied high command.

There's a gathering of the United Nations clans in the Orient for the kill. It isn't just coincidence that this comes as the great MacArthur strikes to redeem his pledge to free the Philippines. The method and concerted action are recognition that this is the crucial moment.

Australia is making big preparations to accommodate British forces. The vast Indian base is seething with activity. The Royal Air Force in England already has completed plans to move a steady stream of warplanes to the Far East the moment Hitler yells doom—or somebody yells it for him. The British are moving a great naval fleet from England into the Orient.

Action From Stillwell

Our own General Stillwell in China is rushing operations for the reopening of the Burma Road to expedite the movement of supplies to the hard-pressed Chinese and to the American Air Force. The British are attacking again in Burma, with the ending of the monsoon deluge. Lord Mountbatten's command is welding the spade in work preliminary to assaults against Japan's key positions in Indonesia.

So the steel ring tightens about the Mikado's forces. But there's another element present in the Allied set-up which isn't so obvious. That's the vast aid which General MacArthur is receiving, and will receive increasingly, from the Philippine population of some 17,000,000 in defeating the Japanese.

Probably we shall be smart not to assume that all Filipino love us and will work for us. However, a multitude of them will give us their aid, and MacArthur is reported to be receiving invaluable assistance from them already.

Guerrillas Active

Some of the aid will be military, for guerrilla bands have been operating against the Japanese ever since the brigands of the Orient invaded the Philippines. From the days of Bataan, intrepid bands of Filipinos have been operating out of their hill and jungle fastnesses to harry and slay the Japs.

Other Filipino help will be in material things, and the archipelago is rich in much that MacArthur will need. However, a highly important part of the assistance will be neither in fighting nor in supplies but a contribution which will be under cover.

This will be the spying out of information about the Japanese forces as MacArthur extends his occupation into the great island of Luzon from which the Allies will be able to lash out at the Japanese from all directions. Working under cloak of secrecy the Filipinos will act as ears and eyes for the American forces—a tremendous help.

Local USES Office Places 1,188 Workers

The local United States Employment Service office of the War Manpower Commission placed 1188 workers in jobs last month. E. A. Crouse, manager, announced today. Of these placements, he said, 581 were women.

"Under the priority referral system, whereby we channel as many male workers as possible into war jobs where they are most vitally needed," Mr. Crouse said "many of these workers were found jobs supporting the war effort."

Placements in occupational groups were as follows: Service jobs 1, semi-skilled 3, unskilled and others 1184.

The Employment Service here anticipates continued heavy demand for workers in view of the present manpower shortage, Mr. Crouse said.

"I have been advised by Edwin W. Pauley, treasurer of the national committee," he added, "that such an organization has been established in an effort to raise funds to defray campaign expenses. Those who subscribe $1,000 are making an investment in democracy and the project has my approval."

JAPS COMMIT HARI-KARI BY USING FLEET

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

It looks as though the Japanese had just about succeeded in committing hara-kiri in the great sea-battle off the Philippines.

They have suffered a major disaster. Indeed, it may prove to be a decisive defeat which has smashed the main-spring of Nippon's sea power and so will hasten the end of the Pacific war. However, we can't appraise the situation fully until the complete report is at hand. This is a moment for exultation but not for loose superlatives.

While details are lacking it's clear that the Allied force (an Australian squadron participated) has dealt a devastating blow to Japan's first-line ships. This may have crippled the Mikado's Navy—a calamity for him.

Crisis Is Near
This column yesterday called the developing battle of the Philippines the crisis of the war in the Orient. Clearly the magnitude of the Japanese naval effort is recognition of this. But the Japs aren't the only ones to see the emergency. There are signs on every hand that this thought of crisis is in the minds of the Allied high command.

There's a gathering of the United Nations clans in the Orient for the kill. It isn't just coincidence that this comes as the great MacArthur strikes to redeem his pledge to free the Philippines. The method and concerted action are recognition that this is the crucial moment.

Australia is making big preparations to accommodate British forces. The vast Indian base is seething with activity. The Royal Air Force in England already has completed plans to move a steady stream of warplanes to the Far East the moment Hitler yells quits—or somebody yells it for him. The British are moving a great naval fleet from England into the Orient.

Action From Stillwell
Our own General Stillwell in China is rushing operations for the reopening of the Burma Road to expedite the movement of supplies to the hard-pressed Chinese and to the American Air Force. The British are attacking again in Burma, with the ending of the monsoon deluge. Lord Mountbatten's command is wielding the spade in work preliminary to assaults against Japan's key positions in Indonesia.

So the steel ring tightens about the Mikado's forces. But there's another element present in the Allied set-up which isn't so obvious. That's the vast aid which General MacArthur is receiving, and will receive increasingly, from the Filipino population of some 17,000,000 in defeating the Japanese.

Probably we shall be smart not to assume that all Filipino love us and will work for us. However, a multitude of them will give us their aid, and MacArthur is reported to be receiving invaluable assistance from them already.

Guerillas Active
Some of the aid will be military, for guerrilla bands have been operating against the Japanese ever since the brigands of the Orient invaded the Philippines. From the days of Bataan, intrepid bands of Filipinos have been operating out of their hill and jungle fastnesses to harry and slay the Japs.

Other Filipino help will be in material things, and the archipelago is rich in much that MacArthur will need. However, a highly important part of the assistance will be neither in fighting nor in supplies but a contribution which will be under cover.

This will be the spying out of information about the Japanese forces as MacArthur extends his occupation into the great island of Luzon from which the Allies will be able to lash out at the Japanese from all directions. Working under cloak of secrecy the Filipinos will act as ears and eyes for the American forces—a tremendous help.

Local USES Office Places 1,188 Workers

The local United States Employment Service office of the War Manpower Commission placed 1188 workers in jobs last month. E. A. Crouse, manager, announced today. Of these placements, he said, 581 were women.

"Under the priority referral system, whereby we channel as many male workers as possible into war jobs where they are most vitally needed," Mr. Crouse said "many of these workers were found jobs supporting the war effort."

Placements in occupational groups were as follows: Service jobs 1, semi-skilled 3, unskilled and others 1184.

The Employment Service here anticipates continued heavy demand for workers in view of the present manpower shortage. Mr. Crouse said.

Under terms of their contracts, anthracite miners set aside October 29 to commemorate John Mitchell, the union leader. Since that date falls on Sunday this year, any observance would be October 30. November 1 is All Saints Day.

Hannegan Denies Dewey's Charges

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—A declaration by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, in his Chicago speech last night that President Roosevelt's administration "boldly offers for sale 'special privilege,'" has been denied by Democratic national committee Chairman Robert E. Hannegan.

Replying to Dewey's reference to the "One Thousand Club," Hannegan said in a statement last night "I have never discussed with the President the organization of the 'Thousand Club' and any quotation contained in the letter read tonight by Governor Dewey attributed to the President is wholly without substance and is unauthorized."

"I have been advised by Edwin W. Pauley, treasurer of the national committee," he added, "that such an organization has been established in an effort to raise funds to defray campaign expenses. Those who subscribe $1,000 are making an investment in democracy and the project has my approval."

PRIMATE OF ENGLAND DIES

London, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. William Temple, died today after a heart attack. The Primate of all England was 63 and had been enthroned in bomb-pocked old Canterbury Cathedral since April 23, 1942.

His death and that of Princess Beatrice, which occurred a few hours earlier, plunged England into mourning. Princess Beatrice, last surviving child of Queen Victoria, was 88 years old.

Dr. Temple was the son of an Archbishop of Canterbury and they were the only father and son ever to hold the highest office in the church of England. The father was the late Dr. Frederick Temple, who was archbishop during the reign of Edward VII.

Dr. William Temple succeeded Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, who resigned at 78 with the request that a younger man be placed in the office. In 1929, Dr. Temple had become archbishop of York, second highest post in the Church of England, and before that he had been bishop of Manchester.

The archbishop was confined to his bed in September and it was said then that he was suffering from an infection which was slow in responding to treatment.

GREAT AUNT OF KING DIES

London, Oct. 26 (AP)—Princess Beatrice, youngest and last surviving child of Britain's famed Queen Victoria and mother of former Queen Victoria Eugenie of Spain, died today.

Christened Beatrice Marie Victoria Feodore but known all her life simply as Princess Beatrice, she was governor and captain of the Isle of Wight since the death of her husband, Prince Henry of Battenberg, in 1896. She would have been 88 next April 14.

As governor, she had the title of Coroner for the island, the only woman in Britain to hold it. She never held inquiries, however, the duties being discharged by a Deputy Coroner.

Princess Beatrice was an aunt of the late King George V, Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany and Queen Marie of Rumania.

MAROONS MEET CHAMBERSBURG HERE FRIDAY

An unbeaten Chambersburg high school football team will seek to keep its record clean here Friday evening at 8 o'clock when it meets Coach Mel Dry's Gettysburg high outfit in the final home game of the season for the Maroons.

The Trojans, despite their impressive record, have not developed into as strong an outfit as pre-season dopesters anticipated.

In scoring victories over Shippenburg, Columbia and Hershey, Coach Beard's boys came from behind to triumph. In their game with Hanover Monday afternoon Chambersburg held a 14-0 advantage going into the final period but collapsed to allow the Nighthawks to gain a 14-14 tie. Hanover pushed the Franklin countians all over the field in rolling up 16 first downs to their opponents' four.

Alters Lineup
Coach Dry indicated today he will make two changes in the starting lineup for the locals. George Thrush will replace Luther Sacks at end, while William Sperry will move from guard to center with Stevenson moving into Sperry's slot at guard. Hess, who started at center against Delone, may be able to see part time action if his ankle heals sufficiently.

The remainder of the Maroon lineup will include Rasmussen, end; Sanders and Keefe, tackles; Shealer, guard; Haehnle, Moyer, Pilder and Tonsel, backs.

Chambersburg's starting outfit is expected to include Heindel and Kouris, ends; Henderson and Houser, tackles; Blair and Boyles, guards; Stumbaugh, center; Bricker, quarterback; Lasher and Renfrew, halfbacks, and Geiman, fullback.

Two other conference games are on tap Friday evening. The most important will be the battle between Carlisle and Hershey at Hershey. Carlisle is in second place in the South Penn loop with two wins in as many starts while Hershey is third with two wins and one setback.

Waynesboro and Mechanicsburg, each seeking their first win of the season, meet at Mechanicsburg. The Tornado has lost four straight games while Mechanicsburg has dropped five.

Lower Paxton At Bigler Tonight

This evening at 8 o'clock Biglerville and Lower Paxton high schools will lock horns on the Biglerville gridiron in a Lower Susquehanna conference game.

Excepting for Ogden and Hikes, both of whom are doubtful starters, Coach "Hen" Bream's outfit is in good physical condition for the contest.

Lower Paxton has divided in six games played to date while the Biglerville record is two wins against one defeat.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Oct. 26 (AP) — In a high school football game at Chipewa Falls, Wis., recently the two teams lined up facing the wrong goals after a score and didn't discover it until Bloomer high school carried the winning touchdown over the wrong line. . . . Then the hollering began but officials decided to allow the tally and to finish the game the wrong way. . . . And in Ohio a Youngstown Ursuline halfback was going for a touchdown when a Scienceville sub, ready to go into the game, dashed out from the sidelines and tackled him. . . . Also in Ohio Ted Himes of Mt. Blanchard insisted on kicking the extra points bare footed. "I get a better feel of things with 'em off," he explained. He made three out of four tries.

Hal Chase and George Sisler, conceded to be two of the best fielding first basemen in baseball, each made four errors in one contest while Zeke Bonura, noted for his stationary fielding, held the record for double plays by a first sacker—150—until Lou Gehrig broke it.

CONFIDENCE NOTE

AP REPORTER IS KILLED BY BOMB

San Francisco, Oct. 26 (AP)—Asahel (Ace) Bush's luck ran out yesterday. The 31 year old Associated Press war correspondent was killed by a Japanese bomb at Tacloban, liberated capital of Leyte island in the Philippines.

His death was reported by C. Yates McDaniel, chief of the AP staff covering the Philippine invasion. McDaniel said Bush had just covered a phase of the epochal naval battle off Leyte when Japanese planes raided Tacloban. Bush was killed outright.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent the following message to Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press: "I have learned with deep regret of the death by enemy action of Asahel Bush. Bush was a credit to the profession he so ably represented. He was admired by all. Please convey my sincere sympathy to his loved ones."

During the Hollandia invasion in New Guinea Ace sat down to write his story in an abandoned Japanese ammunition dump. Minutes after he finished his story he left. A Jap plane came over and dropped one bomb. It hit the dump.

Massillon Fans Eye Badger-Sailor Tilt

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—The eyes of Massillon, O., (pop. 23,000) where professional football flourished back in 1943, will focus Saturday on Madison, Wis., where two of the town's favorite sons will do gridiron battle.

The illustrious pair—Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, and Lt. Paul Brown, skipper of the Great Lakes Sailors—both came up from Massillon's Washington high school, where for the past 10 years the "Tiger" have averaged 18,000 per game in attendance and haven't been beaten more than a couple of times. Both were backfield men for the Tigers.

Stuhldreher, graduating in 1920, went on to Notre Dame to become one of the famed "Four Horsemen." Brown, six years later, found himself too small for Ohio State's rugged squad after a year as a freshman. He transferred to Notre Dame and was turned to coach after college. Stuhldreher spending a decade at Villanova before picking up the Wisconsin reins.

(By The Associated Press)
The Pittsburgh Hornets today hold first place in the western division of the American Hockey league in their grasp. Scoring their fourth victory in a row last night when they whipped Providence, 6-3, Max Kaminsky's men have now won one third of their entire bag last year.

The Hornets staged a third-period rally after the Reds had knotted the count at 2-2 in the second period. Pittsburgh shot home three fast goals early in the last round to clinch the contest. After a 6-1 defeat at the hands of the Cleveland Barons on opening day, the Hornets have knocked off Providence, Cleveland and Buffalo, and have averaged six goals a game.

MAROONS MEET CHAMBERSBURG HERE FRIDAY

An unbeaten Chambersburg high school football team will seek to keep its record clean here Friday evening at 8 o'clock when it meets Coach Mel Dry's Gettysburg high outfit in the final home game of the season for the Maroons.

The Trojans, despite their impressive record, have not developed into as strong an outfit as pre-season dopesters anticipated.

In scoring victories over Shippenburg, Columbia and Hershey, Coach Beard's boys came from behind to triumph. In their game with Hanover Monday afternoon Chambersburg held a 14-0 advantage going into the final period but collapsed to allow the Nighthawks to gain a 14-14 tie. Hanover pushed the Franklin countians all over the field in rolling up 16 first downs to their opponents' four.

Alters Lineup
Coach Dry indicated today he will make two changes in the starting lineup for the locals. George Thrush will replace Luther Sachs at end while William Sperry will move from guard to center with Stevenson moving into Sperry's slot at guard. Hess, who started at center against Delone, may be able to see part time action if his ankle heals sufficiently.

The remainder of the Maroon lineup will include Rasmussen, end; Sanders and Keefe, tackles; Shealer, guard; Hachnien, Moyer, Fidler and Tonsel, backs.

Chambersburg's starting outfit is expected to include Heindel and Koutris, ends; Henderson and Houser, tackles; Blair and Boyles, guards; Stumbaugh, center; Bricker, quarterback; Leshner and Renfrew, halfbacks, and Geiman, fullback.

Other Games
Two other conference games are on tap Friday evening. The most important will be the battle between Carlisle and Hershey at Hershey. Carlisle is in second place in the South Penn loop with two wins in as many starts while Hershey is third with two wins and one setback. Waynesboro and Mechanicsburg, each seeking their first win of the season, meet at Mechanicsburg. The Tornado has lost four straight games while Mechanicsburg has dropped five.

Layden Warns Clubs About Cleveland 11

Chicago, Oct. 26 (AP)—Those Green Bay Packers may be booming along at the head of the National football league's western division today, but, says Commissioner Elmer Layden, they can't be counted in until the Cleveland Rams are counted out.

"Remember, the Rams were just about counted out before the season opened," Layden said today in an interview. "Look what they've done. They knocked off the Card-Pitts, Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions in a row before losing that 30-21 thriller to Green Bay Sunday."

"That team has more spirit, more confidence than any club in the league, and an ingenuity in developing plays off the T-formation that has every defense they'll meet worried."

Lower Paxton has divided in six games played to date while the Bigler record is two wins against one defeat.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGB FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—In a high school football game at Chipewawa Falls, Wis., recently the two teams lined up facing the wrong goals after a score and didn't discover it until Bloomer high school carried the winning touchdown over the wrong line.

Then the hollering began but officials decided to allow the tally and to finish the game the wrong way. . . . And in Ohio a Youngstown Ursuline halfback was going for a touchdown when a scienceville sub, ready to go into the game, dashed out from the sidelines and tackled him.

Also in Ohio Ted Himes of Mt. Blanchard insisted on kicking the extra points bare footed. "I get a better feel of things with 'em off," he explained. He made three out of four tries.

MAROONS MEET CHAMBERSBURG HERE FRIDAY

An unbeaten Chambersburg high school football team will seek to keep its record clean here Friday evening at 8 o'clock when it meets Coach Mel Dry's Gettysburg high outfit in the final home game of the season for the Maroons.

The Trojans, despite their impressive record, have not developed into as strong an outfit as pre-season posters anticipated.

In scoring victories over Shipensburg, Columbia and Hershey, Coach Beard's boys came from behind to triumph. In their game with Hanover Monday afternoon Chambersburg held a 14-0 advantage going into the final period but collapsed to allow the Nighthawks to gain a 14-14 tie. Hanover pushed the Franklin countians all over the field in rolling up 16 first downs to their opponents' four.

Alters Lineup

Coach Dry indicated today he will make two changes in the starting lineup for the locals. George Thrush will replace Luther Sachs at end while William Sperry will move from guard to center with Stevenson moving into Sperry's slot at guard. Hess, who started at center against Delone, may be able to see part time action if his ankle heals sufficiently.

The remainder of the Maroon lineup will include Rasmussen, end; Sanders and Keefe, tackles; Shealer, guard; Haehnlen, Moyer, Fidler and Tonsel, backs.

Chambersburg's starting outfit is expected to include Heindel and Koutris, ends; Hendeson and Houser, tackles; Blair and Boyles, guards; Stumbaugh, center; Bricker, quarterback; Lesher and Renfrew, halfbacks, and Geiman, fullback.

Other Games

Two other conference games are on tap Friday evening. The most important will be the battle between Carlisle and Hershey at Hershey. Carlisle is in second place in the South Penn loop with two wins in as many starts while Hershey is third with two wins and one setback.

Waynesboro and Mechanicsburg, each seeking their first win of the season, meet at Mechanicsburg. The Tornado has lost four straight games while Mechanicsburg has dropped five.

Layden Warns Clubs About Cleveland 11

Chicago, Oct. 26 (AP)—Those Green Bay Packers may be booming along at the head of the National football league's western division today, but, says Commissioner Elmer Layden, they can't be counted in until the Cleveland Rams are counted out.

"Remember, the Rams were just about counted out before the season opened," Layden said today in an interview. "Look what they've done. They knocked off the Card-Pitts, Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions in a row before losing that 30-21 thriller to Green Bay Sunday."

"That team has more spirit, more confidence than any club in the league, and an ingenuity in developing plays off the T-formation that has every defense they'll meet worried."

PUBLIC AUCTION

Closing out sale, Friday, October 27 and Tuesday, October 31, 1944, at 7:30 p. m. 450 prs. shoes of all kinds, 2 prs. fishing boots, clothing of all kinds, lots of good piece goods by the yard, hardware, pre-war linseed oil, general store fixtures of all kinds, all kinds of drugs and many articles not mentioned.

Lower Paxton At Bigler Tonight

This evening at 8 o'clock Biglerville and Lower Paxton high schools will lock horns on the Biglerville gridiron in a Lower Susquehanna conference game.

Excepting for Ogden and Hikes, both of whom are doubtful starters, Coach "Hen" Bream's outfit is in good physical condition for the contest.

Lower Paxton has divided in six games played to date while the Biglerville record is two wins against one defeat.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGB FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—In a high school football game at Chipewawa Falls, Wis., recently the two teams lined up facing the wrong goals after a score and didn't discover it until Bloomer high school carried the winning touchdown over the wrong line. . . . Then the hollering began but officials decided to allow the tally and to finish the game the wrong way. . . . And in Ohio a Youngstown Ursuline halfback was going for a touchdown when a Scienceville sub, ready to go into the game, dashed out from the sidelines and tackled him. . . . Also in Ohio Ted Himes of Mt. Blanchard insisted on kicking the extra points bare footed. "I get a better feel of things with 'em off," he explained. He made three out of four tries.

Hal Chase and George Slater, conceded to be two of the best fielding first basemen in baseball, each made four errors in one contest while Zeke Bonura, noted for his stationary fielding, held the record for double plays by a first sacker—150—until Lou Gehrig broke it.

CONFIDENCE NOTE

When Georgia Tech's Dinkey Bowen went in to try for that field goal that beat Navy last Saturday, Assistant Coach Bobby Dodd patted his back and asked if he thought he could make it. . . . Said Bowen: "You wouldn't be sending me in if you thought I couldn't, would you, Coach?"

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

It may be catty to mention it, but Michigan State's football team already has played the Scranton Tomcats, the Wildcats of Kentucky and Kansas State and soon will meet the Missouri Tigers. . . . The New York Rangers are "importing" two American-born hockey players from Canada. They are Roy Ahlstrand of Virginia, Minn., and Tony Dorn of Thief River Falls, Minn., who tried out with the Rangers in Winnipeg. . . . Miami, Fla., high school recently ended a 32-game football winning streak that began in 1940 and Smackover, Ark., suffered its first defeat after 22 straight wins. . . . When time comes for Australia to defend the Davis Cup, look for Dinny Pails, a youngster who has been giving Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist trouble in exhibitions, to play an important role.

SERVICE DEPT.

Marine Lieut. John A. Witkoski, former Manhattan College quarterback, recently received the Silver Star and a presidential citation at a review in his honor at Parris Island, S. C. . . . The Camp Lejeune Marine footballers figure they'll have a better chance to bury their opponents with Sully Sullivan and Vic Ruffenach on the squad. Sullivan used to be a grave digger and Ruffenach an undertaker.

AP REPORTER IS KILLED BY BOMB

San Francisco, Oct. 26 (AP)—Asahel (Ace) Bush's luck ran out yesterday. The 31 year old Associated Press war correspondent was killed by a Japanese bomb at Tacloban, liberated capital of Leyte island in the Philippines.

His death was reported by C. Yates McDaniel, chief of the AP staff covering the Philippine invasion. McDaniel said Bush had just covered a phase of the epochal Naval battle off Leyte when Japanese planes raided Tacloban. Bush was killed outright.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent the following message to Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press:

"I have learned with deep regret of the death by enemy action of Asahel Bush. Bush was a credit to the profession he so ably represented. He was admired by all. Please convey my sincere sympathy to his loved ones."

END WORK STOPPAGE

Lebanon, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—An agreement has been reached between the management and the United Steel Workers of America union at the Lebanon Steel foundry, ending a one-day work stoppage, due to "internal differences," said company officials. The dispute, said State Senator Clarence Becker, company counsel, started in one of the departments on Monday and spread to other parts of the plant.

Maroon Reserves To Meet Cannors

The Gettysburg high school scrub football team will play its third game of the season Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when the Biglerville reserves are met at Biglerville.

Coach Fred Haehnlen's lads have lost 6-0 to Carlisle while playing a 7-7 deadlock with the Hanover junior high eleven.

Friday's game will be the first of the season for the Biglerville reserves.

Massillon Fans Eye Badger-Sailor Tilt

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—The eyes of Massillon, O. (pop. 23,000) where professional football flourished back in 1905, will focus Saturday on Madison, Wis., where two of the town's favorite sons will do gridiron battle.

The illustrious pair—Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, and Lt. Paul Brown, skipper of the Great Lakes Sailors—both came up from Massillon's Washington high school, where for the past 10 years the "Terrific Tigers" have averaged 18,000 per game in attendance and haven't been beaten more than a couple of times. Both were backfield men for the Tigers.

Stuhldreher, graduating in 1920, went on to Notre Dame to become one of the famed "Four Horsemen." Brown, six years later, found himself too small for Ohio State's rugged squad after a year as a freshman, and transferred to little Miami university at Oxford, O.

Both turned to coach after college. Stuhldreher spending a decade at Villanova before picking up the Wisconsin reins.

Out of every thousand American women, 77 have purchased colored bed sheets.

SPORT SHORTS

State College, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—Johnny Chuckran, 168-pound freshman tailback from Lansford, Pa., will captain the Penn State football team in Saturday's game against West Virginia. He was named captain for last Saturday's game, also, the first time in the history of the Nittany Lions that a freshman received the honor.

Lewisburg, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—Sixteen Bucknell Navy and Marine trainees will be playing their last game for the Bisons when they meet Temple tomorrow night. The squad, excused from drills this week because of leaves granted to the trainees, will reassemble in Philadelphia today for a stiff workout for the Temple tilt.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (AP)—Coach George Munser has picked Jack Rosenthal, veteran right end from Miami, Fla., to captain the University of Pennsylvania's football team in the Saturday game against Navy.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (AP)—Irish Billy Miller, of Pittsburgh, will be seeking his 28th consecutive victory when he meets Jackie Floyd at the arena next Monday night.

HORNETS TAKE LEAGUE LEAD

(By The Associated Press) The Pittsburgh Hornets today held first place in the western division of the American Hockey league firmly in their grasp. Scoring their fourth victory in a row last night when they whipped Providence, 6-3, Max Kaminsky's men have now won one third of their entire bag last year.

The Hornets staged a third-period rally after the Reds had knotted the count at 2-2 in the second period. Pittsburgh shot home three fast goals early in the last round to clinch the contest. After a 6-1 defeat at the hands of the Cleveland Barons on opening day, the Hornets have knocked off Providence, Cleveland and Buffalo, and have averaged six goals a game.

Fireworks last night were furnished by Hornets' Howard Mackie. The Pittsburgh left-winger was ruled off the ice in the third period for tripping, and drew a ten-minute misconduct penalty for arguing too heatedly with Referee Norval Fitzgerald.

In the other game last night, the Indianapolis Caps' 7-3 margin of victory over the Hershey Bears was the playing of Wing Jud McAttee, on loan from the Detroit Red Wings. McAttee scored four goals, two of them unassisted. He tallied twice in the second period in the space of a minute and 12 seconds.

ANTIQUÉ COLLECTOR
Well, I suppose, no worse it looks than search of man for ancient books.
But man will go his way alone For folios he wants to own.
While hubby's company woman seeks
When she goes prowling for antiques.

"Come with me!" such a wife implores.
"To treasure hunt the moldy stores.
Come with me! howsoever you tire.
To find old andirons for the fire!
Today I know of auction sales
Of Duncan Phykes and Chippendales!"

But man who vowed that he would die
Her fondest wish to gratify
Says: "Nothing doing! On your way!"
At home I much prefer to stay.
No love have I for ancient dust,
Worm-eaten wood of metal rust!"

Thus man and wife, though one at heart,
Pursuing hobbies draw apart.
For seldom any married pair
Enjoy a sport that both can share.
Alone she goes on wanderings
Whose passion is for ancient things.

Today's Talk

Thoreau once wrote these words: "A man receives only what he is ready to receive, whether physically or intellectually or morally, as animals conceive at certain seasons their own kind only."

We constantly thrust aside from our minds that which we look upon as having no relation to us at the moment. If we would listen more, and think more, we would know more. We put ourselves in a state of unreadiness so much that we miss opportunities that actually beg at our feet! The receptive mind is the healthiest of all minds.

It is a compliment to any of us when we are spoken of as an open-minded person. That means that we don't keep our mental door closed. There is a welcome sign right over its front entrance—and that's good!

There are more things that do concern us than we ever imagine. We learn this from our contact with trained minds, and from the reading of worthwhile books. But a state of readiness is essential if we would be receptive and gain increase in intelligence and growth of mind and spirit.

Preparation brings about this valuable state of readiness, as well as having an open mind to receive. We never know when the opportunity may come our way for great service, but if we are in the proper mood, opportunity has no trouble getting to us and receiving us with open arms!

From our earliest years this should be ever in our mind—to be ready when the time comes for us to do something, and to be someone, inattention, and allowing ourselves to get into the habit of being unconcerned about the life things about us that ought to grow our interest and mental urge, are sure to leave us on the side-lines as spectators and cronies.

I read somewhere that "it is not enough to be ready to go where opportunity calls, but that he should stand around where he can hear the call."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject "Haste and Drudgery."

DEWEY CLAIMS $1,000 WILL BUY FOR PRIVILEGES

By JACK BELL
En Route with Dewey to Albany, Oct. 26 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, voicing a charge that President Roosevelt had sponsored an idea to "sell special privilege" to $1,000 contributors to the Democratic fourth term fund, called today for a new national administration founded on "rudimentary honesty."

The Republican President nominee told a yelling, whirling throng in the Chicago Stadium last night that it was time for Americans to "resolve here and now to put an end to government by the cynical theory of who gets what, when and why."

Declaring that men and women on WPA had been "shaken down for political contributions to the New Deal," Dewey asserted that Mr. Roosevelt himself had countenanced a plan by which he said those who wished to help finance the fourth term campaign would be invited to participate "in the formulation of administration policies for one thousand dollars on the barrel head."

"Time For A Change"
The audience responded with a loud groan.

"That's why it's time for a change," the New York governor cried.

Andy Frain, chief usher, estimated that 30,000 persons were packed into the hall and there were 10,000 outside.

Dewey took for his text a letter he said had been dated Oct. 16 on

YANKS FIGHT TO JOIN RAID

With American Rangers, in the Philippines, Oct. 17 (Delayed) (AP) — Fighting American Rangers pleaded with officers and fought among themselves for the honor of being the first men to hit Philippine soil. And when the Rangers swarmed ashore at Dinagat, Homohon and Suluan islands, off the east coast of Leyte today, three days in advance of the scheduled main event on Leyte itself, this was the Rangers starting team lineup for the assault on Dinagat's rocky beach:

One boat in the first wave was led by Second Lt. Ambrose J. Nichols by the theory of "who gets what, when and why." For a thousand dollars laid on the line to finance the fourth term drive, this administration boldly offers for sale "special privilege," including the special privilege of assisting in the formulation of administrative policies."

Scheduled to arrive in Albany this afternoon, Dewey planned to put the final touches to an agricultural address which he will deliver at 12:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, in Syracuse Saturday. It will be the first major speech he has made in daylight hours since his nomination.

Just Folks

ANTIQUE COLLECTOR

Well, I suppose, no worse it looks Than search of man for ancient books,
But man will go his way alone
For folios he wants to own,
While hubby's company woman seeks
When she goes prowling for antiques.

"Come with me!" such a wife implores.

"To treasure hunt the moldy stores,
Come with me! howsoever you tire,
To find old andrions for the fire!
Today I know of auction sales
Of Duncan Phyfes and Chippendales!"

But man who vowed that he would die

Her fondest wish to gratify Says: "Nothing doing! On your way!"

At home I much prefer to stay,
No love have I for ancient dust,
Worm-eaten wood of metal rust!"

Thus man and wife, though one at heart,

Pursuing hobbies draw apart,
For seldom any married pair
Enjoy a sport that both can share.
Alone she goes on wanderings
Whose passion is for ancient things.

Today's Talk

READINESS

Thoreau once wrote these words:
"A man receives only what he is ready to receive, whether physically or intellectually or morally, as animals conceive at certain seasons their own kind only."

We constantly thrust aside from our minds that which we look upon as having no relation to us at the moment. If we would listen more, and think more, we would know more. We put ourselves in a state of unreadiness so much that we miss opportunities that actually beg at our feet! The receptive mind is the healthiest of all minds.

It is a compliment to any of us when we are spoken of as an open-minded person. That means that we don't keep our mental door closed. There is a Welcome sign right over its front entrance—and that's good!

There are more things that do concern us than we ever imagine.
We learn this from our contact with trained minds, and from the reading of worthwhile books, but a state of readiness is essential if we would be receptive and gain increase in intelligence and growth of mind and spirit.

Preparation brings about this valuable state of readiness, as well as having an open mind to receive.
We never know when the opportunity may come our way for great service, but if we are in the proper mood, opportunity has no trouble getting to us and receiving us with open arms!

From our earliest years this should be ever in our mind—to be ready when the time comes for us to do something, and to be somebody.
Inattention, and allowing ourselves to get into the habit of being unconcerned about the live things about us that ought to draw our interest and mental urge, are sure to leave us on the side-lines as in-actives and drones.

I read somewhere that "it is not enough to be ready to go where opportunity calls, but that we should stand around where we can hear the call."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Haste and Drudgery."

DEWEY CLAIMS $1,000 WILL BUY FDR PRIVILEGES

By JACK BELL

En Route with Dewey to Albany,
Oct. 26 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E.
Dewey, voicing a charge that President Roosevelt had sponsored an idea to "sell special privilege" to $1,000 contributors to the Democratic fourth term fund, called today for a new national administration founded on "rudimentary honesty."

The Republican President nominee told a yelling, whistling throng in the Chicago Stadium last night that it was time for Americans to "resolve here and now to put an end to government by the cynical theory of 'who gets what, when and why.'"

Declaring that men and women on WPA had been "shaken down for political contributions to the New Deal," Dewey asserted that Mr.
Roosevelt himself had countenanced a plan by which he said those who wished to help finance the fourth term campaign would be invited to participate "in the formulation of administration policies for one thousand dollars on the barrel-head."

"Time For A Change"
The audience responded with a loud groan.

"That's why it's time for a change," the New York governor cried.

Andy Fraim, chief usher, estimated that 30,000 persons were packed into the hall and there were 10,000 outside.

Dewey took for his text a letter he said had been dated Oct. 16 on the stationery of the National Democratic Campaign Headquarters in Little Rock, Ark., and signed by H.

L. McAlister and Sam J. Watkins,
Arkansas finance directors for the Democratic campaign. Dewey said the letter was inspired by a recent conference at the White House between President Roosevelt, Robert E. Hannagan, Democratic national chairman, and Edwin Pauley, party treasurer.

The GOP nominee paused a moment before he read the letter in which the President was quoted as having said he thought it would be "a good idea" to have 1,000 persons from all sections of the United States "banded together" to "act as a liaison to see that facts relating to public interest are presented factually to the President and members of Congress."

Then the governor read what he asserted was this further excerpt:
"Members of this organization undoubtedly will be granted special privilege and prestige by party leaders. These members will be called into conference from time to time to discuss matters of national importance and to assist in the formulation of administrative policies."

The letter continued, he said, with an admonition that the first requirement for membership in the "one thousand club" would be the contribution of $1,000 to the National Democratic Campaign fund.
"There," Dewey declared, "in crude unblushing words is the ultimate expression of New Deal politics."

CLEMENT RAPS RAILROAD SUIT

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (AP)—Saying that "chaos" would result if the Justice Department succeeds in a pending suit against the Association of American Railroads, Martin W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, predicted the suit "will be entirely refuted if the case ever comes to trial."

The Pennsylvania is one of the 47 railroads named in a suit filed by Assistant Attorney General Wendell Berge charging violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Berge alleged "that by collusive and illegal action, the defendants have maintained freight rates for the western part of the United States which are higher than those fixed by the defendants for shippers in the east x x x."

Clement said in a statement released yesterday to employees and stockholders that railroads concerned would be "reduced to the status of unrelated units, making such arrangements for the interchange of passengers, freight and equipment as may fit the occasion, and with each road fixing its own standards."

Favors Changing School Subsidies

Harrisburg, Oct. 26 (AP)—Chairman George Young of the legislative commission to study the public school system said today he favored basing state subsidies to school districts in 45 third class cities in Pennsylvania on county rather than city assessments.

Commission evidence, Young said in a statement, indicated average school tax rates in cities are higher than those prevailing in second and third class districts outside of cities, while the assessments of real estate made by cities were "on the whole considerably higher" than those made by county officials on the same properties.

The question arose, Young said, because of a proposal now before the commission to drop the present system of estimating market value of real estate in calculating school subsidies and use assessed valuations instead.

7,000 COPS TO GUARD FDR AT PHILADELPHIA

(By The Associated Press) Final plans for President Roosevelt's Philadelphia visit tomorrow are being rounded into shape.

With only a few details to be ironed out, the committee arrangements and Secret Service disclosed.

A police force of 4,500 men and 174 detectives plus Secret Service and Department of Justice men—aided by 2,500 auxiliary policemen—will guard the President.

Twenty-five hundred college and high school girls will act as hostesses at Shibe Park.

Gates at the ball park will open at 6 p. m. with the formal program starting at 7:30 o'clock and the President scheduled to arrive at 8:35 o'clock.

Four Navy Yard Previous to the 9 o'clock speech, Mr. Roosevelt will tour the Philadelphia naval yard, the Navy hospital, city and nearby war plants and shipyards and will visit Camden, N. J.

In another development on the political front, GOP State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor said he would go to Washington for a Saturday 10 a. m. hearing before the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee.

Counsel Robert Murphy, of the committee also said several Pennsylvanians, including Taylor, have been subpoenaed in an investigation of campaign literature. Republican state headquarters said in a statement issued under Taylor's name:

"Every expenditure for printed matter and for all other expenses incident to the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania will be duly reported as required by law."

Other Developments

Gifford Pinchot, twice Republican governor of Pennsylvania and chairman of the Independent Voters for Pennsylvania, told a Wilkes-Barre crowd to "get out and vote for your real friend x x x Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Federal Judge Charles Alvin Jones, Democratic candidate for the supreme court, in a prepared address urged that "everyone go to the polls and vote as his or her honest judgment dictates but let each one be sure to shut arguments based upon hate and prejudice just as he would shun a loathsome pestilence."

Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence, also in a prepared Scranton-released speech said the crucial test of a man running for office "is not in his words but in his record, and there is nowhere in Tom Dewey's record, an indication that he will ever fight to better the lot of the average man and woman."

General food rationing has been unnecessary in this country for the last two years, said William S. Livingston, Secretary of Internal Affairs, in a prepared address before the final rally of Republican Women of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

Forfeits Confidence "Many persons might be led into a trap by that man in the White House and his talk of internationalism and foreign policy to blind us to conditions at home," he said. Justice Howard W. Hughes, Republican nominee for the supreme court, said in a statement released for delivery in Philadelphia that "by his vacillating diplomacy and failure to trust the people, Mr. Roosevelt has forfeited the warmth of public confidence in his words and deeds."

Rep. Francis J. Myers, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, declared in a statement: prepared for release at Scranton, that Gov. Dewey in his Minneapolis speech "made it plain that he supports the isolationists who support him."

Congressman Joseph W. Pratt (R. Pa.) said in a prepared radio speech at Philadelphia that the federal administration is "trying to convert the United States to national Socialism."

Lt. Vernon O'Rourke, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Eighth district, home on leave, issued a statement in which he said "I will not be a rubber stamp" if elected and "I will make my own decisions on public questions, regardless of consequences."

CLEMENT RAPS RAILROAD SUIT

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (AP)—Saying that "chaos" would result if the Justice Department succeeds in a pending suit against the Association of American Railroads, Martin W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, predicted the suit "will be entirely refuted if the case ever comes to trial."

The Pennsylvania is one of the 47 railroads named in a suit filed by Assistant Attorney General Wendell Berge charging violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Berge alleged "that by collusive and illegal action, the defendants have maintained freight rates for the western part of the United States which are higher than those fixed by the defendants for shippers in the east x x x."

Clement said in a statement released yesterday to employees and stockholders that railroads concerned would be "reduced to the status of unrelated units, making such arrangements for the interchange of passengers, freight and equipment as may fit the occasion, and with each road fixing its own standards."

Favors Changing School Subsidies
Harrisburg, Oct. 26 (AP)—Chairman George Young of the legislative commission to study the public school system said today he favored basing state subsidies to school districts in 46 third class cities in Pennsylvania on county rather than city assessments.

Commission evidence, Young said in a statement, indicated average school tax rates in cities are higher than those prevailing in second and third class districts outside of cities, while the assessments of real estate made by cities were "on the whole considerably higher" than those made by county officials on the same properties.

The question arose, Young said, because of a proposal now before the commission to drop the present system of estimating market value of real estate in calculating school subsidies and use assessed valuations instead.

7,000 COPS TO GUARD FDR AT PHILADELPHIA

(By The Associated Press)
Final plans for President Roosevelt's Philadelphia visit tomorrow are being rounded into shape.

With only a few details to be ironed out, the committee arrangements and Secret Service disclosed: A police force of 4,500 men and 174 detectives plus Secret Service and Department of Justice men—aided by 2,500 auxiliary policemen, will guard the President.

Twenty-five hundred college and high school girls will act as hostesses at Shibe Park.

Gates at the ball park will open at 6 p. m., with the formal program starting at 7:30 o'clock and the President scheduled to arrive at 8:55 o'clock.

Tour Navy Yard
Previous to the 9 o'clock speech, Mr. Roosevelt will tour the Philadelphia naval yard, the Navy hospital, city and nearby war plants and shipyards and will visit Camden, N. J.

In another development on the political front, GOP State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor said he would go to Washington for a Saturday 10 a. m. hearing before the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee.

Counsel Robert Murphy, of the committee also said several Pennsylvanians, including Taylor, have been subpoenaed in an investigation of campaign literature. Republican state headquarters said in a statement issued under Taylor's name:

"Every expenditure for printed matter and for all other expenses incident to the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania will be duly reported as required by law."

Other Developments

Clifford Pinchot, twice Republican governor of Pennsylvania and chairman of the Independent Voters for Pennsylvania, told a Wilkes-Barre crowd to "get out and vote for your real friend x x x Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Federal Judge Charles Alvin Jones, Democratic candidate for the supreme court, in a prepared address urged that "everyone go to the polls and vote as his or her honest judgment dictates but let each one be sure to shun arguments based upon hate and prejudice just as he would shun a loathsome pestilence."

Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence, also in a prepared speech at Philadelphia said the crucial test of a man running for office "is not in his words but in his record, and there is nowhere in Tom Dewey's record, an indication that he will ever fight to better the lot of the average man and woman."

General food rationing has been unnecessary in this country for the last two years, said William S. Livingston, Secretary of Internal Affairs, in a prepared address before the final rally of Republican Women of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

to conditions at home," he said.

Justice Howard W. Hughes, Republican nominee for the supreme court, said in a statement released for delivery in Philadelphia that "by his vacillating diplomacy and failure to trust the people, Mr. Roosevelt has forfeited the warmth of public confidence in his words and deeds."

Rep. Francis J. Myers, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, declared in a statement prepared for release at Scranton, that Gov. Dewey in his Minneapolis speech "made it plain that he supports the isolationists who support him."

Congressman Joseph W. Pratt (R., Pa.) said in a prepared radio speech at Philadelphia that the federal administration is "trying to convert the United States to national Socialism."

La. Vernon O'Rourke, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Eighth district, home on leave, issued a statement in which he said "I will not be a rubber stamp" if elected and "I will make my own decisions on public questions, regardless of consequences."

MARTIN RAPS LEADERSHIP OF NEW DEAL

West Chester, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Governor Martin today told a Republican gathering "We cannot reconvert industry, give jobs to our workers and our veterans and keep the national credit sound under x x x the same old, tired, jealous, bickering and quarrelsome leadership."

Asserting in a speech released by his office at Harrisburg "we cannot pay our debts and maintain our standard of living under the New Deal," Martin called for a program "to encourage people to engage in new business or expand their old business."

"In order to stimulate business and make jobs," he listed these things as necessary:

"Encourage venture capitals and lower taxes, particularly in the lower brackets and on active business, so there will be money to invest."

Balance Budget

"Balance our governmental budgets. Government must pay as it goes and the people must be convinced that it will go so."

Send Golf Balls To Prisoners Of Nazis

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—War prisoners aid of the YMCA announced today it had sent 500 golf balls to Geneva, for transfer to American prisoners of war in German camps. Clubs for 100 players also were in the shipment. The announcement said:

"Let anyone think American war prisoners in Germany lead a country club life. War Prisoners Aid points out that the golf courses in prison camps are miniatures, that boundary lines are marked by barbed wire, and that there is a permanent 'gallery' of guards armed with machine guns."

ing priorities, wages and prices must be removed wherever possible in order to encourage private industry.

"Government should dispose of its investments, its lands, plants and property as fast as possible in order to get out of competition with labor, agriculture and industry."

Martin also urged encouragement of mass production, higher living standards and "an end to the intemperances under which our courts have suffered."

"We must see to it that men and women of doubtful loyalties," he added, "are not given high places of power and prestige in this country. We must recall and live by the principle, 'put only Americans on guard.'"

MARTIN RAPS LEADERSHIP OF NEW DEAL

West Chester, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Governor Martin today told a Republican gathering "We cannot convert industry, give jobs to our workers and our veterans and keep the national credit sound under x x x the same old, tired, jealous, bickering and quarrelsome leadership."

Asserting in a speech released by his office at Harrisburg "we cannot pay our debts and maintain our standard of living under the New Deal," Martin called for a program "to encourage people to engage in new business or expand their old business."

"In order to stimulate business and make jobs," he listed these things as necessary:

Send Golf Balls To Prisoners Of Nazis

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—War prisoners aid of the YMCA announced today it had sent 500 golf balls to Geneva, for transfer to American prisoners of war in German camps. Clubs for 100 players also were in the shipment. The announcement said:

"Let anyone think American war prisoners in Germany lead a country club life. War Prisoners Aid points out that the golf courses in prison camps are miniature, that boundary lines are marked by barbed wire, and that there is a permanent 'gallery' of guards armed with machine guns."

ing priorities, wages and prices must be removed wherever possible in order to encourage private industry.

"Government should dispose of its investments, its lands, plants and property as fast as possible in order to get out of competition with labor, agriculture and industry."

Martin also urged encouragement of mass production, higher living standards and "an end to the intimidations under which our courts have suffered."

"We must see to it that men and women of doubtful loyalties," he added, "are not given high places of power and prestige in this country. We must recall and live by the principle, 'put only Americans on guard.'"

MARTIN RAPS LEADERSHIP OF NEW DEAL

West Chester, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Governor Martin today told a Republican gathering "We cannot reconvert industry, give jobs to our workers and our veterans and keep the national credit sound under x x x the same old, tired, jealous, bickering and quarrelsome leadership."

Asserting in a speech released by his office at Harrisburg "we cannot pay our debts and maintain our standard of living under the New Deal," Martin called for a program "to encourage people to engage in new business or expand their old business."

"In order to stimulate business and make jobs," he listed these things as necessary:

"Encourage venture capitals and lower taxes, particularly in the lower brackets and on active business, so there will be money to invest."

Balance Budget

"Balance our governmental budgets. Government must pay as it goes and the people must be convinced that it will do so."

"Regulations and controls regard-

Send Golf Balls To Prisoners Of Nazis

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—War prisoners aid of the YMCA announced today it had sent 500 golf balls to Geneva, for transfer to American prisoners of war in German camps. Clubs for 100 players also were in the shipment. The announcement said:

"Let anyone think American war prisoners in Germany lead a country club life. War Prisoners Aid points out that the golf courses in prison camps are miniatures, that boundary lines are marked by barbed wire, and that there is a permanent 'gallery' of guards armed with machine guns."

ing priorities, wages and prices must be removed wherever possible in order to encourage private industry.

"Government should dispose of its investments, its lands, plants and property as fast as possible in order to get out of competition with labor, agriculture and industry."

Martin also urged encouragement of mass production, higher living standards and "an end to the intimidations under which our courts have suffered."

"We must see to it that men and women of doubtful loyalties," he added, "are not given high places of power and prestige in this country. We must recall and live by the principle, 'put only Americans on guard.'"

Claim 'Teen-age Centers Lure Kids

State College, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—Counselors attending the closing session of a war marriage institute were told by Dr. Garry C. Myers, editor and author, that "teen-age centers, while 'doing a great job' may be unknowingly luring children away from home."

Myers said that "children in better circumstances have been the most numerous patrons" at centers that were constructed to provide a safe place where children of war working parents might enjoy themselves.

Emmitsburg Veteran Served Under MacArthur's Father In Philippines

GUY NUNEMAKER FOUGHT IN 1901 ON SAMAR ISLE

Current war news from Leyte and Samar in the Philippines has a familiar ring for Guy Nunemaker, 65-year-old retired utility man in Emmitsburg who was in the Philippines 43 years ago with General MacArthur's father, Major General Arthur MacArthur, during the Filipino insurrection.

Nunemaker, who has served as burgess and a commissioner in Emmitsburg and is now clerk to the town's board of commissioners, was in a unit that took a review from General MacArthur at Tacloban, mentioned frequently in news reports from the Philippines this week.

His account of combat duty in that area and of other experiences in the Philippines with volunteer fighting men from the United States follows:

(By GUY NUNEMAKER)

Forty-three years ago I was a member of a detachment of soldiers standing at present arms as a military courtesy to Major General Arthur MacArthur when he came ashore at Tacloban, Leyte, in the Philippine Islands. He is the father of General MacArthur, who in command of United States forces this week captured Tacloban from the Japanese army.

Fifty thousand troops were sent to the Philippines during 1899 to put down an uprising of the Filipinos against the United States. These troops were sent to the larger islands of the group, and the 43rd Infantry, of which I was a member, was dispatched to the island of Samar, closely adjacent and lying to the north of Leyte. The islands are separated by a narrow body of water, no more than 50 feet at some places.

The Filipino army under command of the native General Anginaldo, after being dispersed on the island of Luzon re-assembled on the island of Samar. The 43rd Infantry and the 11th Cavalry were sent there, and 400 of us were transferred into small boats, approaching the shore line at Calatogog. When some 100 yards from shore we unloaded into the water at waist deep, and deployed in line of skirmishers. Our captain, M. J. Spellman, of New York city, warned the men to keep their guns and ammunition dry, and ready for immediate use when the shore line was reached.

Had Bamboo Guns

Then several Spanish bugles disturbed along the line of entrenchments, noticeable for the first time, sounded the "commence firing," followed by one scattered blast of gun fire, and the most fiendish yells by the natives in the trenches. When the smoke cleared the water was full of floating soldier hats, and there was not a dry head in the command. Every one went under guns and ammunition, too. When you are shot at there is a tendency to duck, at least when you are under fire for the first time.

The gunboats Concord and Vicksburg shelled the back hills thinking that the natives were entrenched there, but brought their fire power to bear on the trenches along the shore line following the first indication of the exact location of the Filipino soldiers. As we went over the top of the trenches we found many killed and wounded by the snells from the gun boats, and it was then we learned about the equipment being used by the so-called army of the Philippines.

Back of these fortifications were 300 cannon, 10 of which were of the small brass type such as we used when lowering the flag at army posts, and 200 made by the Filipinos from bamboo logs, wrapped with the fiber from the banana trees. These they filled to the very end with black powder and iron slugs, and when fired many exploded killing more of the Filipino soldiers who were operating them than the soldiers who were in front making the attack.

Faked Machine Guns

Their machine guns gave us a thrill, our none of our men seemed to get hit, and a final charge brought us to a long line of these guns and we were surprised to see a contraption made of a number of wooden slats, turned by a handle, each paddle striking a stationary object, and when turned sufficiently fast gave out a noise that was much like the machine guns used by the Germans during that period. The few arms in possession of the Filipinos were smuggled in by the Germans. A prisoner told us that their plan of defense was to fire all the cannon at about the same time, do some tall yelling, and that added to the noise of the wooden machine guns would frighten our soldiers and we would return to Manila and be content to live a life of ease like the Spaniards who controlled the islands for many years, allowing the peoples of the islands to the south

PHONE BOOKS IN EMMITSBURG

Emmitsburg's new telephone directory is being delivered to more than 400 subscribers, according to a statement made by Melvin W. Ambrose, manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore.

Melvin W. Ambrose

Information in the directory tells how to make emergency calls, how to get repair service, space for important telephone numbers, helpful guides in the proper use of the telephone, information on out-of-town calls, and how to use dial telephones.

Efforts are being made to reduce the number of telephone directories delivered this season. Mr. Ambrose said, in order to conserve paper. Persons having two or more telephones have been asked to limit as far as possible their requests for additional directories due to the government's paper conservation program. Telephone customers are also urged to take good care of their directories and when moving from one location to another to take their directories with them.

A feature of the new directory is the improved appearance of the alphabetical section which resulted from the elimination of advertisements on these pages. Many telephone numbers have been changed since the last directory was issued and telephone users are urged to consult the new directory before making calls.

to live an unrestricted existence.

But the Filipino did not stop fighting when driven back into the hills. He fought with knives, dropped down on our soldiers from under banana leaves came up out of the tall grass and from the thick bamboo forests. He fought at night, got inside of our skins, got in a bunch of water buffalos, any way to get close to a soldier with his long knife.

Poisoned spears were thrown from concealment, deep holes were dug on trails, sharp bamboo spears stuck upright, and the trap covered with banana leaves and sand. The fall to the bottom and the spears was often a distance of 30 feet. The 43rd Infantry lost 50 per cent of the landing force on the island of Samar. Those people of the islands of the Pacific fight to the death, ask no quarter and give none.

The island of Samar is traversed by high mountains, and drained by fast moving rivers. It has water power by the millions of horsepower when the time comes to develop, if ever needed, and virgin mahogany trees of tremendous proportions.

After the extended campaign on Samar the 43rd Infantry was moved to the island of Leyte for a rest period. The natives there have always been peaceful and very friendly to the Americans. There was no fighting on Leyte. My company was stationed at Maasin on the southern part of the island. I was in Tacloban on special duty at the time General MacArthur arrived, and I later was assigned to a mapping expedition which covered the part of Leyte now occupied by the American forces under General MacArthur. That part of the island has many level sections of land, the mountains being more to the center, allowing excellent locations for air fields, and there is every reason to feel that the present landings on the east coast of Leyte will prove to be one of the real strategic moves against the Japs.

Liked American Ways

The island had some roads even back 50 years ago, and there were signs of early civilization. Beautiful churches were to be found in all the towns. In Maasin the church was decorated with much gold and silver. Many paintings had been brought from Spain. There were no benches or seats of any kind in the church.

The people entered on their knees and remained in that position during the services or while they are inside the church.

When a native died the funeral was held at once. Some one of the family went to the grave yard and selected a bamboo basket from a number always found lying in a corner, and the procession headed by a band, sometimes no more than a horn and the bass drum, started for the church. In the meantime room was made in the grave yard by removing the bones of one who had been buried for some years and the bones put on a pile inside the wall of the grave yard.

The people of Maasin were very eager to learn the ways of the Americans to speak English, to have clothes like the Americans, especially the women who would do a soldier's washing for a fashion magazine and we had some sent to us dating back before the Civil War. The natives bathed each morning, men women and children gathered around the dipping well and while the women were washing the clothes to be worn that day, the men doused all hands with the water drawn from the well. We soldiers bathed in the streams coming down from the hills.

Filipino Housekeeping

The Spanish friars had built a convent at the head of Segod Bay (then known as Maligog Bay) from brick imported from Spain. The series of buildings housed 400 native girls who took to the hills when our surveying party arrived. The friars also took their departure for the army was having some trouble with that particular sect. We did not disturb anything but we did sleep on a bed for the first time in many moons. The beds consisted of four posts and railings from the mahogany tree with the fiber from the banana tree closely woven between the side rails, not exactly a beauty-rest but appreciated to the fullest.

The choice manila hemp comes from the lower part of the island of Leyte. Tall coconut trees are cultivated, and a forest of these trees is a wonder to behold but dangerous to the casual visitor unless he is experienced and keeps his eyes aloft on the lookout for falling coconuts. The trees are many feet in the air and the coconut at the top, which means a powerful force when the landing. We soldiers drank the milk which serves in the place of water, and which may be contaminated. If secured during the early mornings the milk is cool and refreshing.

Life is easy for the Filipinos on the island of Leyte. A boy and girl are married at the age of eleven years, that age being an exception. They have no other possessions than a white bolo (a working knife), a cotton shirt and pants of the same material, she with a cotton cloth wrapped around her and twisted at the waist to keep it in position, and reaching down to her knees. A church wedding, always and then to look for a spot upon which to build their house—ground was then free.

Simple Construction

When located, he will select four stout bamboo poles and set them in the ground tied together at the top and about ten feet from the ground with fiber from the banana trees, and then continue to weave a floor at the ten foot elevation with this same fiber. When completed it is a master piece of flexible construction. The roof and sides of their home are made from the banana leaf, matted and tied together with the fiber. There is a door of the same material which swings from the top and is closed at night. The steps are a single bamboo pole with cross pieces tied with the ever useful fiber. They run up and down with ease. No shoes and their feet are fastened for climbing. The front steps are pulled up at night and made fast to prevent monkeys and other roving animals from entering.

The house is completed, no nails, no paint, no taxes, no street numbers and no cost of anything. While the newly married husband is building the house the wife is looking around for something to eat. She has caught some fish with a basket made of fiber, dug up a few wild street potatoes (cometes), pulled down a couple of bananas, picked a breadfruit, and on the way back to the house she will stop and take two mangoes from a tree laden with this most delicious fruit, and since her husband has been working, she will take a pineapple along for him.

Blacksmith for Cook

After a time this family will manage to buy an iron cooking pot in which to steam rice by building a fire and then covering the pot full of rice with banana leaves and the rice steamed in this manner remains whole grain, and with fish oil added was one of the principal diets of us soldiers for a period of several months when there were no regulation rations available. We lived off the country much of the time. Our company cook was a blacksmith before entering the army. He made gravy with bacon grease and flour and it was a matter of turning or it would set up like cement.

The Philippine islands will be a place of interest to many Americans after the present war, and many can find a home there if they so desire. The climate is desirable, almost free of insects I did not see a snake on any of the islands that I visited. The grass hoppers will clean a community of all growing things but this does not happen frequently.

Emmitsburg Veteran Served Under MacArthur's Father In Philippines

GUY NUNEMAKER
FOUGHT IN 1901
ON SAMAR ISLE

Current war news from Leyte and Samar in the Philippines has a familiar ring for Guy Nunemaker, 65-year-old retired utility man in Emmitsburg who was in the Philippines 43 years ago with General MacArthur's father, Major General Arthur MacArthur, during the Filipino Insurrection.

Nunemaker, who has served as burgess and a commissioner in Emmitsburg and is now clerk to the town's board of commissioners, was in a unit that took a review from General MacArthur at Tacloban, mentioned frequently in news reports from the Philippines this week.

His account of combat duty in that area and of other experiences in the Philippines with volunteer fighting men from the United States follows:

(By GUY NUNEMAKER)

Forty-three years ago I was a member of a detachment of soldiers standing at present arms as a military courtesy to Major General Arthur MacArthur when he came ashore at Tacloban, Leyte, in the Philippine Islands. He is the father of General MacArthur, who in command of United States forces this week captured Tacloban from the Japanese army.

Fifty thousand troops were sent to the Philippines during 1899 to put down an uprising of the Filipinos against the United States. These troops were sent to the larger islands of the group, and the 43rd Infantry, of which I was a member, was dispatched to the Island of Samar, closely adjacent and lying to the north of Leyte. The islands are separated by a narrow body of water, no more than 50 feet at some places.

The Filipino army under command of the native General Anguinaldo, after being dispersed on the island of Luzon re-assembled on the island of Samar. The 43rd Infantry and the 11th Cavalry were sent there, and 400 of us were transferred into small boats, approaching the shore line at Calbayog. When some 100 yards from shore we unloaded into the water at waist deep, and deployed in line of skirmishers. Our captain, M. J. Spellman, of New York city, warned the men to keep their guns and ammunition dry, and ready for immediate use when the shore line was reached.

Had Bamboo Guns

Then several Spanish bugles distributed along the line of entrenchments, noticeable for the first time, sounded the "commence firing," followed by one scattered blast of gun fire, and the most fiendish yells by the natives in the trenches. When the smoke cleared the water was full of floating soldier hats, and there was not a dry head under command. Every one went under, guns and ammunition, too. When you are shot at there is a tendency to duck, at least when you are under fire for the first time.

The gunboats Concord and Vicksburg shelled the back hills thinking that the natives were entrenched there, but brought their fire power to bear on the trenches along the shore line following the first indication of the exact location of the Filipino soldiers. As we went over the top of the trenches we found many killed and wounded by the shells from the gun boats, and it was then we learned about the equipment being used by the so-called army of the Philippines.

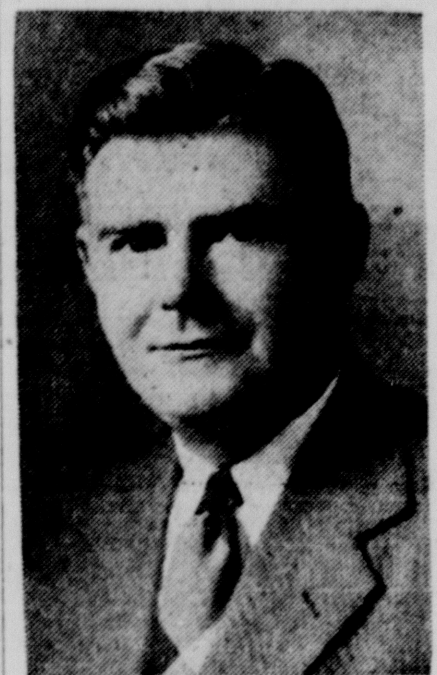

Back of these fortifications were 300 cannon, 10 of which were of the small brass type such as we used when lowering the flag at army posts, and 290 made by the Filipinos from bamboo logs, wrapped with the fiber from the banana trees. These they filed to the very end with black powder and iron slugs, and when fired many exploded, killing more of the Filipino soldiers who were operating them than the soldiers who were in front making the attack.

Faked Machine Guns

Their machine guns gave us a thrill, but none of our men seemed to get hit, and a final charge brought us to a long line of these guns, and we were surprised to see a contraption made of a number of wooden slats, turned by a handle, each paddle striking a stationary object, and when turned sufficiently fast gave out a noise that was much like the machine guns used by the Germans during that period. The few arms in possession of the Filipinos were smuggled in by the Germans. A prisoner told us that their plan of defense was to fire all the cannon at about the same time, do some tall yelling, and that added to the noise of the wooden machine guns would frighten our soldiers and we would return to Manila and be content to live a life of ease like the Spaniards who controlled the islands for many years, allowing the peoples of the islands to the south

PHONE BOOKS
IN EMMITSBURG

Emmitsburg's new telephone directory is being delivered to more than 400 subscribers, according to a statement made by Melvin W. Ambrose,

Melvin W. Ambrose

manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore.

Information in the directory tells how to make emergency calls, how to get repair service, space for important telephone numbers, helpful guides in the proper use of the telephone, information on out-of-town calls, and how to use dial telephone.

Efforts are being made to reduce the number of telephone directories delivered this season. Mr. Ambrose said, in order to conserve paper. Persons having two or more telephones have been asked to limit as far as possible their requests for additional directories, due to the government's paper conservation program. Telephone customers are urged to take good care of their directories and when moving from one location to another to take their directories with them.

A feature of the new directory is the improved appearance of the alphabetical section which resulted from the elimination of advertisements on these pages. Many telephone numbers have been changed since the last directory was issued and telephone users are urged to consult the new directory before making calls.

to live an unrestricted existence.

But the Filipino did not stop fighting when driven back into the hills. He fought with knives, dropped down on our soldiers from under banana leaves, came up out of the tall grass, and from the thick bamboo forests. He fought at night, got inside of pig skins, got in a bunch of water buffalos, any way to get close to a soldier with his long knife.

Poisoned spears were thrown from concealment, deep holes were dug on trails, sharp bamboo spears stuck upright, and the trap covered with banana leaves and sand. The fall to the bottom and the spears were often a distance of 30 feet. The 43rd Infantry lost 50 per cent of the landing force on the island of Samar. Those people of the islands of the Pacific fight to the death, ask no quarter and give none.

The island of Samar is traversed by high mountains, and drained by fast moving rivers. It has water power by the millions of horsepower when the time comes to develop, if ever needed, and virgin mahogany trees of tremendous proportions.

After the extended campaign on Samar the 43rd Infantry was moved to the island of Leyte for a rest period. The natives there have always been peaceful and very friendly to the Americans. There was no fighting on Leyte. My company was stationed at Maasin on the southern part of the island. I was in Tacloban on special duty at the time General MacArthur arrived, and I later was assigned to a mapping expedition which covered the part of Leyte now occupied by the American forces under General MacArthur. That part of the island has many level sections of land, the mountains being more to the center, allowing excellent locations for air fields, and there is every reason to feel that the present landings on the east coast of Leyte will prove to be one of the real strategic moves against the Japs.

Liked American Ways

The island had some roads even back 50 years ago, and there were signs of early civilization. Beautiful churches were to be found in all the towns. In Maasin the church was decorated with much gold and silver. Many paintings had been brought from Spain. There were no benches or seats of any kind in the church.

The people entered on their knees and remained in that position during the services or while they are inside the church.

When a native died the funeral was held at once. Some one of the family went to the grave yard and selected a bamboo casket from a number always found lying in a corner, and the procession headed by a band, sometimes no more than a horn and the bass drum, started for the church. In the meantime room was made in the grave yard by removing the bones of one who had been buried for some years, and the bones put on a pile inside the wall of the grave yard.

Life is easy for the Filipinos on the island of Leyte. A boy and girl are married at the age of eleven years, that age being an exception, will have no other possessions than, he with bolo (a working knife), a cotton shirt and pants of the same material, she with a cotton cloth wrapped around her and twisted at the waist to keep it in position, and reaching down to her knees. A church wedding, always, and then to look for a spot upon which to build their house—ground was then free.

Simple Construction

When located, he will select four stout bamboo poles and set them in the ground, tied together at the top and about ten feet from the ground with fiber from the banana trees, and then continue to weave a floor at the ten foot elevation with this same fiber. When completed it is a master piece of flexible construction. The roof and sides of their home are made from the banana leaf, matted and tied together with the fiber. There is a door of the same material, which swings from the top and is closed at night. The steps are a single bamboo pole with cross pieces tied with the ever useful fiber. They run up and down with ease. No shoes and their feet are fashioned for climbing. The front steps are pulled up at night and made fast to prevent monkeys and other roving animals from entering.

The house is completed, no nails, no paint, no taxes, no street numbers and no cost of any kind. While the newly married husband is building the house the wife is looking around for something to eat. She has caught some fish with a basket made of fiber, dug up a few wild sweet potatoes (comdies), pulled down a couple bananas, picked a breadfruit, and on the way back to the house she will stop and take two mangoes from a tree laden with this most delicious fruit, and since her husband has been working, she will take a pineapple along for him.

Blacksmith for Cook

After a time this family will manage to buy an iron cooking pot in which to steam rice by building a fire and then covering the pot full of rice with banana leaves and the hot ashes. The rice steamed in this manner remains whole grain, and with fish oil added was one of the principal diets of us soldiers for a period of several months when there were no regulation rations available. We lived off the country much of the time. Our company cook was a blacksmith before entering the army. He made gravy with bacon grease and flour and it was a matter of timing or it would set up like cement.

The Philippine Islands will be a place of interest to many Americans after the present war, and many can find a home there if they so desire. The climate is desirable, almost free of insects. I did not see a snake on any of the islands that I visited. The grass hoppers will clean a community of all growing things, but this does not happen frequently.

DEFEAT OF JAP NAVY CHANGES WAR'S COURSE

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Associated Press Naval Writer
Washington, Oct. 26 (AP) — The crushing defeat handed the Japanese Navy in Philippine waters brought to Washington and the nation today the cheering thought that the whole course of the war may now be changed and victory brought months nearer.

A Japanese defeat of the magnitude reported in that dispatches would mean that Japan is shown as a naval power—that powerful American task forces which never have feared engagement with the enemy would be relieved of any trouble from possible naval forces.

And with such freedom of action—relieved of any necessity of guarding against operation of the Japanese fleet—the American Pacific fleet would concentrate upon wiping out remaining enemy surface units and softening up Japan's island bases.

Question Size Of Fleet
However, some naval observers are inclined to check the fragmentary reports of damage against estimates of the size of the Japanese fleet. They point out that Japan has been credited with at least a dozen each of battleships and first-line aircraft carriers. Early reports of the Philippines battle mention one battleship sunk, four damaged, some possibly sunk, an aircraft carrier sunk, two others damaged and several cruisers and destroyers sunk or damaged.

Admiral Ernest J. King, Navy commander-in-chief, before announcement of the American victory, had told newsmen that "practically all" of the Japanese fleet was involved in the Philippines action.

The soldiers suffered from fever and the "doo" itch due to wading the streams and sleeping on the ground. The itch or mud sore was very severe and was not treated for some months, as we were without medical supplies when away from Manila. When a treatment for the itch finally arrived we were not told that the principal base was carbolic acid, and a rub was filled with a hammer using a brush. He took care of the first soldier in line, and painted him from head to foot. That soldier bit out for the beach, no more followed and we learned later that the solution was to be applied with a bit of cotton on a match stick, one sore at a time.

DEFEAT OF JAP NAVY CHANGES WAR'S COURSE

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Associated Press Naval Writer
Washington, Oct. 26 (AP) — The crushing defeat handed the Japanese Navy in Philippine waters brought to Washington and the nation today the cheering thought that the whole course of the war may now be changed and victory brought months nearer.

A Japanese defeat of the magnitude reported in first dispatches would mean that Japan is through as a naval power—that powerful American task forces which never have feared engagement with the enemy would be relieved of any trouble from sizable naval forces.

And with such freedom of action—relieved of any necessity of guarding against operation of the Japanese fleet—the American Pacific fleet would concentrate upon wiping out remaining enemy surface units and softening up Japan's island bases.

Question Size Of Fleet
However, some Naval observers are inclined to check the fragmentary reports of damage against estimates of the size of the Japanese fleet. They point out that Japan has been credited with at least a dozen each of battleships and first-line aircraft carriers. Early reports of the Philippines battle mention one battleship sunk, four damaged, some possibly sunk, an aircraft carrier sunk, two others damaged and several cruisers and destroyers sunk or damaged.

Admiral Ernest J. King, Navy commander-in-chief, before announcement of the American victory, had told newsmen that "practically all" of the Japanese fleet was involved in the Philippines action.

WITH A SONG FROM THEIR HEARTS—these lads, aided by Belgian War Relief Society, member agency of the National War Fund, find new and safe ways of life in England.

The soldiers suffered from fever and the "doby" itch due to wading the streams and sleeping on the ground. The itch or mild sores were very severe and was not treated for some months, as we were without medical supplies when away from Manila. When a treatment for the itch finally arrived we were not told that the principal base was carbolic acid, and a tub was filled with a painter using a brush. He took care of the first soldier in line, and painted him from head to foot. That soldier lit out for the beach, no more followed, and we learned later that the solution was to be applied with a bit of cotton on a match stick, one sore at a time.

REASONABLE DISLIKE
New York, Oct. 26 (AP) — Even though it had two "it's" in it, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hittler didn't like their name.

So Supreme Court Justice E. L. Hammer authorized them to change it to Hiller.

When Adolph Hitler came to power there were two Hittlers and 11 Hittlers in the city directory. There is none listed now.

WAR PLANTS FOR SALE! BUT WHEN?

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 26 (AP)—You could knock me down with a slightly used war plant, help me. But—You can't find out whether you can buy a war plant now.

Jesse Jones is boss of the government's reconstruction finance corporation (RFC). Within RFC is the defense plant corporation (DPC). So Jones is boss over both.

DPC has built about 2,000 war plants and projects, costing billions of dollars. Uncle Sam owns them. Private companies operate them.

Two weeks ago Jones sent out a catalogue—listing 879 of the plants.

For Sale or Lease
With the catalogue Jones sent a letter saying: "We will negotiate at this time for their sale (the plants) or lease, subject to contingencies of present contracts and length of time plants will continue in war use."

Once the catalogue was distributed, Jones says, some people misunderstood its meaning.

So Jones had to issue a statement explaining the catalogue was meant to give businessmen advance information on DPC plants so that "when any of them are declared surplus and no longer necessary in the war effort, they can be converted with all possible speed and the least possible loss of employment."

Some months ago President Roosevelt appointed Will Clayton surplus war property administrator. He designated RFC, among others, as a government agency qualified to sell surplus war property.

But yesterday at RFC it was explained he didn't rule that RFC had to wait until a war plant was considered surplus to sell it.

Still a Question

So RFC proceeded to negotiate with the Chevrolet company for sale of a Buffalo DPC plant operated by Chevrolet. RFC says this plant will continue in war work for some time. While RFC was getting up its catalogue and negotiating with Chevrolet, congress passed a bill on surplus property.

This law abolished Clayton's job and called for a 3-man board appointed by the President. So far the board hasn't been named. It seems sure that the board will re-name RFC as a disposal agency. But, since the board is not yet in existence, it can't be said positively what it will do.

If RFC eventually sells the Buffalo plant to Chevrolet, it seems likely a lot of other business firms will demand that RFC sell plants to them before they have been declared surplus.

ALLIED TROOPS MAKE 11-MILE GAIN IN ITALY

Rome, Oct. 26 (AP)—Eighth Army troops have cleared the Germans from the Savio river line in the eastern Po valley and, thrusting from bridgeheads west and north of Cesena, have advanced northwestward to within five miles of Forlì along the highway to Bologna. Allied headquarters announced today.

The Eighth Army advanced at least 11 miles in a thrust that placed it only 37 miles from Bologna.

"The enemy having withdrawn, Eighth Army troops have advanced rapidly from their Cesena bridgehead, have driven in enemy rear guards and crossed the river Bevano," the communique said.

West of the Bevano, the Allied forces captured the town of Forlimpopoli, directly on the Bologna highway, and reached the Ronco river, three miles beyond. The lack of resistance indicated the advance would continue to Forlì itself.

Canadian troops striking out from their bridgehead across the Savio river above Cesena have reached a point more than four miles to the northwest.

South of the Po valley highway British, Indian and Polish troops were clearing mountainous terrain of Germans.

The Fifth Army meanwhile continued to batter away against stiff resistance on the southern approaches to Bologna. The Germans were reported digging trenches south and southwest of the stronghold, indicating a plan to defend the town to the bitter end. Heavy

VETERAN DIES

Warren, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Coroner Ed Lowrey reported the death of Thomas S. Farrell, 50, a World War I veteran, who collapsed yesterday on the sidewalk near the Veterans of Foreign Wars home.

German artillery fire straddled Highway 65 south of Bologna.

SPOKESMAN OF SEIZED PLANT 'SCORES ACTION

Erie, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—A spokesman for the Lord Manufacturing Co., whose aircraft parts plant today was operated by the Navy under Presidential order, declared that the firm "always has been and always will be 100 per cent for the war effort."

"But we don't want to go broke voluntarily," said the company's vice president, Thomas Lord, in commenting on the seizure yesterday following a price dispute. The action was the first of its kind.

Rear Adm. Harold G. Bowman and a staff of seven had charge of the plant today. President Roosevelt's executive order said the company had "willfully refused and failed to furnish" war materials at prices fixed in a joint Army-Navy order of September 23.

Government Order
The joint order was termed at that time the first application of a pricing provision in the 1943 Revenue Act. The announcement said it followed "the failure of the services and Lord Manufacturing Co.

to agree on prices deemed fair and reasonable by the services."

The President's order said that the company had changed the terms and conditions of sale "in such a way as to increase the return to the said company above the prices fixed" in the Army-Navy order.

Lord said: "There has been no holdup of production. There has been no holdup of shipments. The only holdup has been by the government who has advised its prime contractors not to pay c.o.d. or sight drafts in order to pick up shipments at destinations and those shipments have been invoiced at government price. They have not been, however, subject to the open terms or cash discounts which were in effect when we had our own (the Lord) price."

Once the catalogue was distributed, Jones says, some people misunderstood its meaning.

So Jones had to issue a statement explaining the catalogue was meant to give businessmen advance information on DPC plants so that "when any of them are declared surplus and no longer necessary in the war effort, they can be converted with all possible speed and the least possible loss of employment."

Some months ago President Roosevelt appointed Will Clayton surplus war property administrator. He designated RFC, among others, as a government agency qualified to sell surplus war property.

But yesterday at RFC it was explained he didn't rule that RFC had to wait until a war plant was considered surplus to sell it.

Still a Question

So RFC proceeded to negotiate with the Chevrolet company for sale of a Buffalo DPC plant operated by Chevrolet. RFC says this plant will continue in war work for some time. While RFC was getting up its catalogue and negotiating with Chevrolet, congress passed a bill on surplus property.

This law abolished Clayton's job and called for a 3-man board appointed by the President. So far the board hasn't been named. It seems sure that the board will remain RFC as a disposal agency. But, since the board is not yet in existence, it can't be said positively what it will do.

If RFC eventually sells the Buffalo plant to Chevrolet, it seems likely a lot of other business firms will demand that RFC sell plants to them before they have been declared surplus.

ALLIED TROOPS MAKE 11-MILE GAIN IN ITALY

Rome, Oct. 26 (AP)—Eighth Army troops have cleared the Germans from the Savio river line in the eastern Po valley and, thrusting from bridgeheads west and north of Cesena, have advanced northwestward to within five miles of Forlì along the highway to Bologna. Allied headquarters announced today.

The Eighth Army advanced at least 11 miles in a thrust that placed it only 37 miles from Bologna.

"The enemy having withdrawn, Eighth Army troops have advanced rapidly from their Cesena bridgehead, have driven in enemy rear guards and crossed the river Bevano," the communique said.

West of the Bevano, the Allied forces captured the town of Forlimpopoli, directly on the Bologna highway, and reached the Ronco river, three miles beyond. The lack of resistance indicated the advance would continue to Forlì itself.

Canadian troops striking out from their bridgehead across the Savio river above Cesena have reached a point more than four miles to the northwest.

South of the Po valley highway British, Indian and Polish troops were clearing mountainous terrain of Germans.

The Fifth Army meanwhile continued to batter away against stiff resistance on the southern approaches to Bologna. The Germans were reported digging trenches south and southwest of the stronghold, indicating a plan to defend the town to the bitter end. Heavy

SPOKESMAN OF SEIZED PLANT 'SCORES ACTION

Erie, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—A spokesman for the Lord Manufacturing Co., whose aircraft parts plant today was operated by the Navy under Presidential order, declared that the firm "always has been and always will be 100 per cent for the war effort."

"But we don't want to go broke voluntarily," said the company's vice president, Thomas Lord, in commenting on the seizure yesterday following a price dispute. The action was the first of its kind.

Rear Adm. Harold G. Bowman and a staff of seven had charge of the plant today. President Roosevelt's executive order said the company had "willfully refused and failed to furnish" war materials at prices fixed in a joint Army-Navy order of September 23.

The joint order was termed at that time the first application of a pricing provision in the 1943 Revenue Act. The announcement said it followed "the failure of the services and Lord Manufacturing Co.

to agree on prices deemed fair and reasonable by the services."

The President's order said that the company had changed the terms and conditions of sale "in such a way as to increase the return to the said company above the prices fixed in the Army-Navy order."

Lord said: "There has been no holdup of production. There has been no holdup of shipments. The only holdup has been by the government who has advised its prime contractors not to pay c.o.d. or sight drafts in order to pick up shipments at destinations and those shipments have been invoiced at government price. They have not been, however, subject to the open terms or cash discounts which were in effect when we had our own (the Lord) price."

Chapter 13

By eight o'clock Cherry had finished tucking Terry into bed at the hotel where Julia Scott-Price had decided to spend the night. Terry promised to make his aunt return to the ship early the next morning. It was odd, thought Cherry as she walked down the wide marble staircase, that on such a night and in such a place, all she wanted was to get back to the ship. Outside the night was perfect; blue velvet studded with stars and the promise of a young moon. The Hotel Wilmington reminded her of a film set with its palms and pines and this fantastic marble staircase that was beautifully cool.

The throbbing of violins came from the orchestra in the Palm Court, drawing her eyes irresistibly as she crossed the main lounge towards the bar. Framed in the marble arches and growing palms she could see people dancing, and the combination of music, lights, and tropical fragrance came towards her like a wave, sensuous, engulfing. She lingered an instant, fascinated by the spectacle, and noticed that Julia's white frock was scintillatingly obvious against the evening suit of her tall partner. Cherry, leaning against one of the marble pillars, felt suddenly sick and cold with shock—cold as this marble.

Julia was dancing with Rory! Dancing with Rory, who bent his head absorbed as she talked; her small body, like as a cat's pressed close to his, melting into it. A strange, attractive, distinguished Rory playing cavalier to this man-hunting figure.

Cherry turned away abruptly and fled to the bar, trying to tell herself that she had imagined that little scene. If she went away quickly enough she might believe it was all nonsense.

I'm having a little party in the Palm Court. Don't bother me.

Oh, it was real enough!

Douglas got down from the scarlet leather stool when he saw her, and his face lit up with pleasure. "So you can come! I'm so glad, my dear—but you look dreadfully pale. Will you have a drink?"

"Yes, please," Cherry said breathlessly, as if this sudden pain were physical.

"What will you have? Martini, sherry?"

"Anything—anything you suggest." She gave an odd little laugh. "I'm in your hands for tonight, Douglas—and I feel horribly tired, so it won't be very amusing to you."

"Poor child, we'll soon put that right," Douglas smiled at her solicitously. "Where would you like to dine?"

"Anywhere you like, except here," she answered numbly.

Douglas pushed the tall glass full of amber-colored liquid closer to Cherry. "Drink up, my dear. You look as though you'd seen a ghost."

She pulled herself together with an effort. She was making a ridiculous fuss about nothing. If people could see how sick she felt. After all, what had she seen? A ship's officer dancing with a very attractive woman passenger, that was all. A thing that could happen very easily, very naturally.

But Rory! Her heart cried. Rory who was noted for not being a "ladies' man," whose sole interest in life was his ship. She closed her eyes against that treasured remembrance of him standing on the bridge this evening, against a dozen small scenes she had etched on her secret mind—Rory smiling at her in

Queen street, Rory stooping and holding out his hands to Terry; Rory turning to the lonely, flustered Miss Baker, "Perhaps you would like to see around the ship, too?"

So Pip was right, and there was a good deal of pose about his uniform. It was just an old-school tie act, after all; one could not make friends with a stewardess, but a passenger was quite another matter.

And why shouldn't he have a good time? Her heart cried out defensively. Week after week, month after month, year after year the war went on—and with it the ceaseless vigilance and responsibility for officers at sea. No wonder they wanted to escape sometimes, to relax.

If it had been anyone but Julia, her hurt mind argued. She saw, over and over again, that fleeting glimpse of Rory bent protectively over the tiny, perfect body flexed into his, Julia, out for a kill, was enough to turn any man's head. Cherry, well as she knew the woman behind the scenes, was honest enough to admit that. But somehow the idea of Rory falling for that artificial glamor, that studied affect, that horrible smoothness of money, appalled her. Cherry thought miserably. I've been a fool. I deserved this. I've just been an idiot, making a little tin god of the man.

She drank some of the amber liquid and pulled a little face. Douglas was laughing at her out of the haze of her painful thoughts. "That's better! You look more like yourself now."

"I'm not dressed." She snatched at the first excuse, smiling a trifle, apologetically. "To be honest, I wasn't coming out. I'm making use

Chapter 13

By eight o'clock Cherry had finished tucking Terry into bed at the hotel where Julia Scott-Price had decided to spend the night. Terry promised to make his aunt return to the ship early the next morning.

It was odd, thought Cherry as she walked down the wide marble staircase, that on such a night and in such a place, all she wanted was to get back to the ship. Outside the night was perfect, blue velvet studded with stars and the promise of a young moon. The Hotel Wilmington reminded her of a film set with its palms and pages and this fantastic marble staircase that was beautifully cool.

The throbbing of violins came from the orchestra in the Palm Court, drawing her eyes irresistibly as she crossed the main lounge towards the bar. Framed in the marble arches and growing palms she could see people dancing, and the combination of music, lights, and tropical fragrance came towards her like a wave, sensuous, engulfing. She lingered an instant, fascinated by the spectacle, and noticed that Julia's white frock was startlingly obvious against the evening suit of her tall partner. Cherry, leaning against one of the marble pillars, felt suddenly sick and cold with shock — cold as this marble.

Julia was dancing with Rory! Dancing with Rory, who bent his head absorbed as she talked; her small body, lithe as a cat's pressed close to his, melting into it. A strange, attractive, distinguished Rory playing cavalier to this man-hunting tigress.

Cherry turned away abruptly and fled to the bar, trying to tell herself that she had imagined that little scene. If she went away quickly enough she might believe it was all nonsense.

I'm having a little party in the Palm Court. Don't bother me.

Oh, it was real enough! Douglas got down from the scarlet leather stool when he saw her, and his face lit up with pleasure. "So you can come! I'm so glad, my dear—but you look dreadfully pale. Will you have a drink?"

"Yes, please," Cherry said it breathlessly, as if this sudden pain were physical.

"What will you have? Martini, sherry?"

"Anything—anything you suggest." She gave an odd little laugh. "I'm in your hands for tonight, Douglas—and I feel horribly tired, so it won't be very amusing to you."

"Poor child, we'll soon put that right," Douglas smiled at her solicitously. "Where would you like to dine?"

"Anywhere you like, except here," she answered numbly.

Douglas pushed the tall glass full of amber-colored liquid closer to Cherry. "Drink up, my dear. You look as though you'd seen a ghost."

She pulled herself together with an effort. She was making a ridiculous fuss about nothing, if people could see how sick she felt. After all, what had she seen? A ship's officer dancing with a very attractive woman passenger, that was all. A thing that could happen very easily, very naturally.

But Rory! Her heart cried. Rory who was noted for not being a "ladies' man," whose sole interest in life was his ship. She closed her eyes against that treasured remembrance of him standing on the bridge this evening, against a dozen small scenes she had etched on her secret mind—Rory smiling at her in

Queen street, Rory stooping and holding out his hands to Terry, Rory turning to the lonely, flustered Miss Baker, "Perhaps you would like to see around the ship, too?"

So Pip was right, and there was a good deal of pose about his uniform. It was just an old-school-tie act, after all; one could not make friends with a stewardess, but a passenger was quite another matter.

And why shouldn't he have a good time? Her heart cried out defensively. Week after week, month after month, year after year the war went on—and with it the ceaseless vigilance and responsibility for officers at sea. No wonder they wanted to escape sometimes, to relax.

If it had been anyone but Julia, her hurt mind argued. She saw, over and over again, that fleeting glimpse of Rory bent protectively over the tiny, perfect body flexed into his. Julia, out for a kill, was enough to turn any man's head. Cherry, well as she knew the woman behind the scenes, was honest enough to admit that. But somehow the idea of Rory falling for that artificial glamor, that studied effect, that horrible smoothness of money, appalled her. Cherry thought miserably. I've been a fool; I deserved this; I've just been an idiot, making a little tin god of the man.

She drank some of the amber liquid and pulled a little face. Douglas was laughing at her out of the haze of her painful thoughts. "That's better! You look more like yourself now."

"I'm not dressed," she snatched at the first excuse, smiling a trifle, apologetically. "To be honest, I wasn't coming out. I'm making use

GULF ANNOUNCES PENSION PLAN

R. E. Garrett, Division Manager of Gulf Oil Corporation, Philadelphia Division, recently made the following announcement:

"Gulf Oil Corporation announced today its adoption of an annuities and benefits plan for the employees of that corporation and participating subsidiary companies, which will make possible retirement incomes for the present 28,000 and future participating employees. The new plan has been put into operation as of January 1, 1944, but allows credit for service prior to that date.

"The purpose of Gulf's new annuity plan is to grant to employees retirement income as an incentive to further service and as a voluntary reward for long-term faithful service, applicable to all on equal terms. No contributions will be made by employees, the cost of the plan being borne by Gulf with funds paid into an irrevocable trust.

"For regular retirement of men or women at age 65, no minimum number of years of creditable service is required. For earlier retirement on a reduced annuity, employees must have attained age 55 and have completed at least 20 years of creditable service.

"An annuitant may elect, in lieu of the annuity otherwise payable on his account after retirement, a reduced annuity of equivalent actuarial value with the provision that after his death payment shall be made to his beneficiary."
